Congress' Reed Pains the GOP

A lineal descendant of John Alden, named Daniel Alden Reed, a Republican congressman from upper New York State who has held office for 34 years, has the administration over a barrel. And the members of it are quite understandably unhappy about it.

Congressman Reed is known as a rigid man. He doesn't change easily. He comes from a long line of ship captains who sailed the Great Lakes from the days when the French were there. He was supposed to have become a ship captain, too, and right now the administration wishes he had.

Instead he went off to Cornell where he played football and became a lawyer. He stayed on for 12 years as a line coach.

He conceals his age, but he is about 78 and is rugged and sound of limb. He walks four miles to his office each day and looks as if he might be able to play a quarter in one of Cornell's football games this fall.

Mr. Reed, I judge, is going right along, as chairman of the House ways and means committee, and let the excess profits tax die on June 30. The administration doesn't like the tax and wants it off, too. But they would prefer to have it extended for six months, as an aid in balancing the budget. Mr. Reed, whose committee sticks with him, says he won't do it. And since his committee handles all tax measures, he will be able to do what he says.

Over the Barrel

So much for that. Mr. Reed also says he is going to push a bill to abolish the last income tax raise which normally will expire Dec. 31. He wants this measure to die with the excess profits on June 30. The House probably will go along with him on this, if he can get it to the floor for passage without amendment. And the Senate will then pigeonhole it.

But, it is precisely here that the stubborn Mr. Reed has the administration over the barrel. When the excess profits taxes go, many business firms will be relieved of roughly a 30 per cent tax burden. But, if the administration, desperately seeking to balance the budget to make the nation's money more stable, gives business this relief and keeps the burden on the individual, there will then be created a really intolerable political situation which would bring down upon the heads of the government the wrath of the voter.

A path has been beaten to Congressman Reed's door by delegations of good Republicans asking him to be a good Republican and go along with the boss so that the budget may be balanced and the excess taxes come off together on Dec. 31. Some of them go away exasperated, and others merely shake their heads sadly.

Congressman Reed says they don't know what's good for the country. "If taxes come off," he says, "people have more to spend and business improves."

Campaign Pledges

Also, he asks, "What about those campaign pledges and speeches in which the candidates all talked of removing these taxes?"

Mr. Reed keeps some reading material on his desk for these visitors. It is a copy of the Republican platform. He shows it to them. And, sure enough, the platform promised tax relief. Congressman Reed is on sound doctrinal grounds, and can prove it by book and verse.

The President made a strong statement to the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council, saying that in meeting the terrific job of balancing the budget, no revenues could be lost until balance was attained. Mr. Reed was not present. And as of today he hadn't heard about it.

It is quite possible that President Eisenhower may have to make a personal appeal to the Congress in order to hold the line. And even then Congressman Reed may stand firm. He won victories all through the New Deal years, and he figures he knows what's best for the party.

What are the Democrats doing about it? Why, just what you'd expect. They are grinning and saying nothing.

2 Republicans Win County Commission Seats in Muscogee

COLUMBUS, March 25—(AP)—Two Republicans won county commission seats tonight in this Democratic stronghold after a campaign which Senator Taft (Rep., Ohio) called the start of a real two-party system in the South.

Steve Knight, 30-year-old attorney, and Frank A. Phillips Jr., 32-year-old hardware dealer, led a field of 16 candidates in the Muscogee County race, complete but unofficial returns indicated.

Taft, Republican leader in the Senate, joined with Senator Mundt (Rep., S. D.), last Monday in lauding the fight Knight and Phillips were making for the newly created posts on the county commission.

NARROW MARGIN

Knight received 3,045 votes of the 8,277 cast. Phillips got 2,795, giving him a narrow, 34-vote margin over Democrat John A. Pope. J. E. Chapman Jr., Democratic executive committee chairman, conceded election of the Republicans.

Knight and Phillips got county GOP blessing following a public caucus early this month.

John A. Pope, who led the Democratic vote, said in a statement tonight:

"I wish to offer my sincere congratulations to the two winners in this race—Steve Knight and Frank Phillips. . . . I wish them well in their term of office . . . and I believe these two . . . will do everything in their power to give us a good county government. . . ."

"WON'T HAPPEN AGAIN"

Chapman said:

"The Republicans shrewdly took advantage of a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity and in my opinion voted their maximum strength . . . the Democrats failed to . . . vote (enough) . . . thinking it couldn't happen here. As a result, the Republicans won. It is just as simple as that. It won't happen again."

The two independents entered in the race, Lawton E. Grantham and Garnett C. Shackelford Jr., ranked far down the list with 269 and 253, respectively.

The 11 other Democratic candidates in the race received tallies ranging from 1,777 for B. Ed Johnson, a former state Senator for this county, to 98 for the lowest man in the race.

A total of 26,000 Columbus and 7,000 county voters are registered in Muscogee. The total vote of 8,277 fell within the 7,500 to 10,000 vote turnout estimated before the polls opened.

Italy Youths Fire British Edifice Unit

ROME, March 25—(AP)—A gang of youths dashed into the British Council Building's library tonight, knocked over a woman librarian, and set the room on fire with gasoline.

No one was injured.

A British Embassy spokesman said 16 or 17 youths were in the group. One, caught by a doorman and turned over to police, said they were protesting the sentencing of several neo-Fascist demonstrators yesterday in Trieste.

Allies Lose Baldy After Bitter Fight

By SID WHITE

SEOUL, March 26—(INS)—Battle-hardened American troops retreated from the bloody slopes of Old Baldy last night and left Chinese infantrymen in possession of the vital position on the Western Front invasion route to Seoul.

A 32nd Regimental officer told International News Service the Americans destroyed their own positions under orders sometime during the night and then "got the hell out of there."

The officer was quoted as saying the United Nations soldiers have pulled completely off Old Baldy.

Allied bombers poured tons of high explosives onto the heights of the position last night in an effort to blast Chinese foot soldiers from the ridge.

Heavy artillery and tanks fired round after round of shellfire at the Reds after a bloody ground battle early today in which both sides suffered heavy casualties.

Col. William B. Kern, 31st Regimental commander, whose troops were on Old Baldy Wednesday, told his men to destroy their bitterly contested positions.

The order was followed during the night by the 31st and 32nd Regiments.

Frontline reports said Allied tanks plastered U. N. bunkers on the south slopes after American troops had evacuated the trenches.

All the Allied troops pulled south to Westview Hill, 100 yards to the southeast, where battle-weary GIs dug in to escape heavy Chinese fire.

Seven night bomb strikes were made by B-26s durinng the night and Marine fighter bombers began pounding the Communists at 7:45 a. m. today.

The B-26s flew at 20 minute intervals to drop more than 100,000 pounds of bombs on Chinese positions.

Commerce Unit To Dismiss 9 Employees Here

Nine employees will be dismissed from the Department of Commerce's regional office here Friday and eight more are scheduled to leave April 24.

The latest cuts will reduce the Atlanta office from 56 .o 21 employees since last July, according to Merrill C. Lofton, regional director. The office has reduced its floor space by 50 per cent to conform with the reduction in staff, Lofton said.

Lofton said most of the district office staffs have been pared down to a bare minimum.

The gradual reduction in force resulted from appropriations cuts for the Commerce department in 1952, Lofton said.

SALUTES QUEEN
Winston Churchill

Queen To Rest by George V

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, March 25—The body of Queen Mary who died yesterday will be buried beside her husband George V in St. George's chapel at Windsor next Tuesday after lying in state Sunday and Monday in Westminster Hall.

This august chamber, the oldest part of the edifice that now houses Parliament, is where her late son George VI lay in state after his death hardly more than a year ago.

ONE MONTH

Queen Elizabeth, granddaughter of the late Queen Mary, decreed today that there should be one month of official court mourning ending April 25, some five weeks before June 2, the date set for her own coronation, which it is now certain will not be affected by the event that has saddened not only this country but the whole Commonwealth and much of the rest of the world.

As Winston Churchill said in a brief broadcast to the British people tonight, few now living can recall a time without Queen Mary.

LAST LINK

She was, he said, the last living link with Queen Victoria. She knew Disraeli and Gladstone and saw the machine age develop into the atomic era. Yet, said the Prime Minister, she was too interested in the present to be unduly influenced by the past and she died with the satisfaction of knowing that the crown of England soon to be placed upon her granddaughter's head is "more broadly and securely based" now than it was in the more privileged nineteenth century.

HALF STAFF

Throughout London flags flew at half staff today. The House of Commons and the House of Lords met briefly to adopt unanimous formal expressions of sympathy to the queen.

After reading the formal words of the official message of condolence, Churchill said he was proposing "no mere formal expression of sympathy" but one that sprang from the hearts of the British people. Of Queen Mary he said:

"She looked a queen. She acted a queen. Her death leaves a void in our hearts and the life of the nation—a void which it will be hard, indeed, to fill."

Racial Bars At Benning Schools Go

Child Segregation Doomed by Ike

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—The White House announced plans today to end racial segregation in Army schools in President Eisenhower's first move to back up his promise of equality in the armed forces.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty disclosed these two major steps:

1. Schools for children of Army personnel at Fort Benning, Ga., the last Army post with segregated schools operated entirely with federal funds, will be "integrated" by the start of the 1953 fall term.

ONE WAY OR ANOTHER

2. The Army is seeking agreement with local officials aimed at ending segregation of Negro and white children in state-operated schools on Army posts. If this fails, the administration will consider "other arrangements"—possibly asking Congress for money to let the government itself operate all Army base schools on a racially-mixed basis.

Hagerty, in a formal statement, recalled that Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference last Thursday he did not know of school segregation on Army posts but would have a study made immediately. The question was raised by a Negro woman reporter.

The President told her he had said again and again he did not see how any American could legally, logically or morally justify discrimination in use of federal funds for any purpose.

IN SUPPORT

Rep. Arthur Winstead (Dem., Miss.), a member of the House armed services committee, said, "We'll not take it lying down; we'll fight it," but did not know how.

He recalled that Mr. Eisenhower told a Senate committee before the 1948 election campaign he opposed ending military segregation.

"I had quoted him in support of our fight against President Truman's orders against segregation in the armed forces," Winstead

Ike Order Hit By Talmadge As Bad Error

Governor Talmadge said Wednesday President Eisenhower made a "great mistake" in banning segregation in schools operated by the Federal Government on Army posts.

"Truman's advocacy of such measures contributed greatly to Eisenhower's victory," Talmadge said at his Lovejoy farm. "Now it looks like Eisenhower is trying to go Truman one better."

"Non-segregation won't work in the South. The white people don't want it and the Negroes don't either."

Lanier County Rep. John Greer said here he hoped Southern Democrats who "deserted their party to support Eisenhower on the theory that he would uphold segregation are satisfied."

The President's order will end segregation in schools operated by the Federal Government for children of Army personnel at Ft. Benning in September.

There are four white elementary schools on the post with 1,063 students and 45 teachers. There is one Negro school for 31 pupils with two teachers.

High school children of Ft. Benning personnel attend Muscogee County schools and the Army pays tuition for them. Muscogee School Superintendent W. H. Shaw said the strict segregation policy in these schools will not be altered.

March Winds Due To Retain Bite, Yet Not So Sharp

The March winds will not blow so hard on Atlantans and North Georgians Thursday, the weatherman says. The skies will be fair, but it will continue to be rather cold, he predicted.

Friday will bring slightly warmer weather while the area will be partly cloudy, he said.

Low and highs predicted on the Thursday weather picture are 34 and 58, with the Friday extremes set at 34 and 66. Atlanta had a range of 55 and 46 recorded Wednesday.

Ready To Go Halfway, UN Is Reassured

By A. M. ROSENTHAL

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 25—The United States told the Communist delegates and the men in the Kremlin today that this country "longs" for honest negotiation and stands ready to meet the Soviet world halfway, but will continue to look to its defenses until the threat of Russian aggression is lifted.

For 25 minutes, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, read out a sharply worded indictment of Soviet policy at home and abroad. Soviet tyranny at home, he said, created dangers for the security of the Communist states, and Soviet "imperialism" abroad made the world live under arms.

Lodge turned to the question that has been uppermost in the minds of United Nations delegates: would the Soviet Union adopt a softer policy toward the West now that Stalin is dead? Perhaps, said Lodge, "new word" from the Kremlin would be brought by former Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, to arrive here tomorrow to take over the Soviet delegation.

But the United States delegate, like many other Western delegates who have touched on the possibility of a new Soviet line, made it clear that his country was interested in actions rather than propaganda. He summed up U. S. determination to keep the West armed while keeping an eye out for the chances of negotiation.

"Our mutual security program will stop when the threat of aggression—not only for us but for all the Free World—is lifted. The United States, like all the Free

Taft, McCarthy Collide As GOP Splits on Bohlen

By JOHN L. STEELE

WASHINGTON, March 25—(UP)—Senator Taft threw his entire prestige behind Charles E. Bohlen to be ambassador to Russia today, but an angry fight led by Senator McCarthy forced the Senate to postpone action at least until Friday.

The dispute brought on the first public clash between the powerful Taft and McCarthy. In spite of the Wisconsin senator's opposition, the Senate was expected to vote overwhelming approval of Bohlen and hand President Eisenhower a smashing victory in what amounted to a major test with McCarthy, who conceded Bohlen would be confirmed.

SHARP FIGHT

But throughout five and one-half hours of tumultous debate, nearly all of it by Republicans, McCarthy clashed sharply with Taft and engaged in a furious verbal fight with Chairman Knowland (Calif.) of the Senate GOP policy committee.

Democrats made little effort to hide their glee at the Republican family fight. Senator Dirksen (Rep., Ill.), noting at one point that Democratic senators were convulsed with laughter, said he had "no doubt our friends on the other side are enjoying this."

OPENS DEBATE

Taft opened the debate by assuring the Senate that his examination of an FBI report on Bohlen convinced him the career was a "completely good security risk." He said he and Senator Sparkman (Dem., Ala.), who inspected the document with him, found "nothing that would even create the most remote guilt by association."

Despite Taft's complete clearance, McCarthy and Senator Bridges (Rep., N. H.) flayed Bohlen as a follower of "Truman-Acheson" foreign policies. McCarthy accused Secretary of State Dulles of making a "grave and inexcusable mistake" in naming Bohlen.

The drama-packed debate was played out before a sometimes hushed and sometimes noisy Senate and crowded galleries. The spectators occasionally broke out with sharp applause contrary to Senate rules.

The McCarthy-Knowland fight

Negro Is Third In Macon Contest

MACON, March 25—(INS)—The first Negro candidate to seek a city office in Macon since reconstruction days emerged third tonight in a field of 16 candidates seeking a city water commission post.

Ammo Ship Couldn't Find Storage Space

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, March 25—A ship that was supposed to have started for Korea loaded with artillery shells has been diverted "to another part of the world" because this type of ammunition has become so plentiful in Korea it has exceeded storage space, it was learned today.

According to an authoritative source at the Pentagon, other ammunition ships with similar cargo for the war-torn peninsula were diverted earlier this month in accordance with a request from the Far East Command to cut down on shipments of artillery shells.

The Army department source paraphrased the note from the Far East Command to the Pentagon to the effect that storage points in Korea were "pretty well filled up."

No attempt was made by the spokesman to reconcile the request for diversion with the statement by Gen. James A. Van Fleet earlier this month that during his 22 months as commander of the Eighth Army he had experienced constant shortages of ammunition. General Van Fleet's opinion was contradicted by Gen. Collins, Army Chief of Staff.

'Lost' Boy, 4, Takes Trolley Ride; Tells Police Dog 'Kayoed' Tooth

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Four-year-old Sam Brock of 577 Rankin St., N. E., took a long ride Wednesday, wound up at police headquarters and promptly registered a complaint.

Sam's mother, Mrs. Nona Brock, said he was playing in the front yard of the home one moment and disappeared the next.

Sam walked a half dozen blocks and entered the exit door of a Georgia Avenue-Emory trolley, which had halted at Forrest Ave. and Boulevard, N. E., to take on passengers.

No one noticed Sam until the trolley reached Houston and Ivy Sts., N. E. Operator C. R. Townsend observed him sitting alone and called Bob Wages, a transit company supervisor.

Several passengers recalled seeing Sam enter through the exit door at Forrest and Boulevard. But they told Wages they thought

Tighten Bureau Grip For Benson, Ike Asks

WASHINGTON, March 25—(UP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today to give Agriculture Secretary Benson a tighter grip on his department with the goal of more "grass roots" control of the nation's farm programs.

The President sent Congress his second government reorganization plan calling for greater concentration of authority in the agriculture secretary and establishment of three new assistant secretaries.

Mr. Eisenhower said money cuts "will result" from reforms "made possible" by his plan, but added that the amount "cannot be itemized at this time."

The plan, following generally the lines of the Hoover Commission proposals, also is very similar to a reorganization proposal submitted in 1950 by former President Truman and rejected by Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower's plan will become law in 60 days unless a majority of the total membership of either house "vetoes" it.

Chairman Hope (Rep., Kan.) of the House Agriculture committee called it a "very good plan" which makes "much needed" changes.

The plan would formally transfer to the secretary functions and duties now given by law to several subordinate farm agencies—notably the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers' Home Administration, Rural Electrification Administration and solicitor's office.

It would not touch the independent status, however, of hearing examiners, farm "corporations" such as the Commodity Credit Corp. and Federal Crop Insurance Corp., and of the Farm Credit Administration and banks, corporations and associations supervised by it.

Ike Would Okay Freeze Powers

Asks Rent Lid Extension In 1,400 Cities and Towns

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—The Eisenhower administration today told Congress it would "accept"—but did not recommend—a standby law authorizing the President to freeze prices and wages for 90 days in emergency.

It called for a five-month extension of federal rent controls in the 1,400 cities and towns where they now exist, and a year-long extension of rent ceilings—until April 30, 1954—in critical housing areas.

The administration spokesman, acting Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Flemming, also urged a four-year extension beyond June 30 of stripped-down priority and allocation powers to protect the munitions build-up.

LAP OF CONGRESS

Testifying before the Senate Banking Committee, Flemming dumped squarely in the lap of Congress the decision on standby quick-freeze powers, aimed to give Congress time to write a detailed anti-inflation law.

Congress is the best judge, he said, of whether it could act swiftly enough—meaning within perhaps 10 days of a military crisis—to avert economic disaster.

If Congress feels its machinery would be too slow, "I am authorized to state that a bill containing a provision granting authority to the President to impose a freeze on prices and wages would be acceptable," Flemming said.

CAN'T FORETELL

It is impossible to foretell, he explained, what situation may exist when a crisis day comes.

This amounted to a turn-down by President Eisenhower of one of the two standby bills introduced by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), chairman of the Banking Committee.

He made these further recommendations, in connection with extension of the Defense Production Act which expires June 30:

1. Elimination of the power to requisition and condemn property needed for defense. Designed to curb profiteering and non-co-operation with the defense effort, Flemming said the power has been used only once—to clear up a clouded title on wanted property.

2. Extension of the power to make and guarantee loans, and otherwise aid companies in expanding for defense production. This includes the signing of 10-year purchase contracts for strategic materials.

SMALL BUSINESS

3. Extension of small-business aids in the manner in which the Small Defense Plant Administration now channels a share of defense work to small contractors.

4. Elimination from the production law of the requirement that materials be allocated among civilians when the military "take" creates shortages.

In place of the last section, Flemming urged that allocation be provided for contractors of the armed forces and the Atomic Energy Commission. This carried one loophole—provision that the President, in the case of shortages so extreme as to disrupt industry, might authorize civilian allocation.

On this point several senators challenged Flemming. Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) led off by asserting: "Even if defense takes 10 per cent of the material it creates a pinch in the economy. Isn't it the little fellow who gets hurt—gets hurt most and quickest?"

Headache Powders, Tobacco Said Stolen

Twenty-five cartons of cigarettes, 10 cartons of smoking tobacco, 10 cartons of chewing tobacco, six cartons of snuff, two boxes of cigars—and one box of headache powders.

Reuther In; Dixie Gets New Chief

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 25 (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, who first won the CIO United Auto Workers presidency as the upshot of a factional feud here in 1946, was re-elected unanimously today to his fifth straight term.

For the first time since his original victory he carried his three top aides back into office with him without even token opposition.

It was the second election victory for the fiery, 45-year-old unionist in three months. He won the CIO presidency after a showdown battle with the late Allen S. Haywood here in December.

The Reuther forces, solidly in control on the convention floor, also swept the boards in a series of regional director elections later in the day.

Carl Stellato, leader of the weak Reuther opposition, failed in his bid for election as regional director on Detroit's West Side. Incumbent Co-Directors Ed Cote and Joseph McCusker edged him for the post.

There was only one change among the 19 regional directors. P. J. Ciampa replaced T. J. Starling as director of the UAW's Southeastern region, with headquarters in Atlanta. But Ciampa, like Starling, had proclaimed himself a Reuther supporter.

Two other directors had opposition—Robert Carter in Flint-Lansing, Mich., and Cy V. O'Halloran in California. The remainder were unopposed.

The 19 regional directors around the country, along with the four top officers, make up the union's International Executive Board. Although Carter was elected originally on an anti-Reuther ticket, the Reuther forces now consider him and all the other 18 regional directors on their side on most policy matters.

Secretary - Treasurer Emil Mazey and Vice Presidents Richard T. Gosser and John W. Livingston were swept back into office with Reuther in the election by acclamation.

A pay raise is planned for the top officers. A constitutional amendment awaiting action would boost Reuther's pay from the present $11,250 to $18,000 and the others' proportionately.

Starling's Loss Is Surprise Here

CIO officials in Atlanta Wednesday called Starling's defeat "a surprise." They said he was regarded as a staunch supporter of Reuther's policies.

Starling was employed at the local plant of Fisher Body Co. prior to his election as regional director for the United Auto Workers in 1941. He once served as president of an Atlanta UAW local.

ROYAL PARTY REVIEWS 325TH INFANTRY
Atlanta-Trained Unit Paraded Before Queen Mary

REVIEWED BY QUEEN MARY

325th Infantry Vets Recall Charming Lady

By MARJORY SMITH

World War I "doughboys" scattered over Georgia had bittersweet memories Wednesday as they read of the death of a great lady.

Men of the Atlanta-trained 325th Infantry, Eighty-second Division, paraded before Dowager Queen Mary—then the charming and majestic wife of ruling monarch King George V—in London on a sunny May day in 1918.

Two Atlantans, attorney Young H. Fraser and W. A. (Bill) Sirmon, treasure photographs of Queen Mary reviewing that 1918 parade. Fraser, marching as a young captain, was "not three feet from the queen." Sirmon served as aide-de-camp to the Army general who planned the parade details.

"Queen Mary — God rest her soul—probably forgot all about it in a few hours. But there are a lot of Georgia men who will never forget the event that sunshiny May 11, 1918, when the 325th Infantry paraded in London and was reviewed by King George and Queen Mary."

Melton recalled that the 325th Infantry, trained at Camp Gordon, then located near Atlanta, was the first unit of foreign troops ever to wear side arms in a London parade. Its members were on their way to France to join the American Expeditionary Forces.

"Before the troop ship docked at Liverpool, a delegation of English officers boarded it with the news that our regiment had been chosen to be the first American infantry outfit to be reviewed by the King!" Melton said.

Led by the King's own Coldstream Guards, the Atlanta-trained infantrymen marched to Buckingham Palace. King George, Queen Mary, Dowager Queen Alexandria, and the Duke of Connaught came outside the palace gates to review the troops.

Melton and many other Georgians had a close glimpse of Queen Mary and the rest of the reviewing party when the "eyes right" command came.

"I remember Queen Mary as though it were yesterday," Melton commented Wednesday. "She was stately, though rather plump. Standing several inches taller than the king, she wore a white linen coat suit, white gloves, and white shoes. Her hat was a small affair topped with flowers. I remember thinking 'every inch a queen' as we marched by!"

GRANDMOTHER ENGLAND

Queen Mary Survived 3 Kings

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON, March 25 (AP) — When Queen Mary of England was married in 1893 to the duke who later became George V, long-lived Queen Victoria still wore the crown of empire.

A woman's place was in the home and a queen's place was in the palace. Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa still were "colonies."

It was a serene world in which everything seemed to be very solid.

But the fireworks started soon after Mary became queen consort in 1910, and she had to move nimbly to keep almost in step with events which so changed the world that Victoria wouldn't have recognized it.

Mary didn't quite keep pace, never completely approving telephones or nylon, but she did her conservative best to keep the dynasty up to date.

Mary, who lived into her 86th year, survived Victoria and three kings who followed—Edward VII and George V and VI—and witnessed the abdication of a king who was her son, and stood up to the crises of two world wars.

She saw colonies boost themselves up to commonwealths and Victoria's empire change into a federation of nations. Mary was the first queen consort to share substantial official burdens with the king.

Homemaker and mother, Mary first learned for herself what a woman must do to manage a family, and then began to apply her experience to welfare activities for women and children. No queen consort before her engaged in public service on such a scale. World War I brought special opportunities.

SUDDEN UNEMPLOYMENT

When fighting started in 1941 British industry and economy were so curiously organized that there was sudden unemployment, instead of an increase in work. In the first month of the war Mary organized the "Queen's Work for Women Fund" to provide employment for women who lost jobs. About 70 relief workrooms were established and for many months provided jobs for thousands of women. War industries finally absorbed most of them.

But not all women were suitable for industry, and for many she organized the "Queen's Needlework Guild." It thrives today at its original purpose of making and collecting garments for persons in distress and also has expanded as a school of needlecraft. Queen Mary had a low opinion of a girl who couldn't ply a needle.

LONG PREPARATION

As Duchess of York and as Princess of Wales Mary had a long time to prepare for her role as queen consort. She studied the behavior of monarchies throughout Europe, and in the end saw about a dozen fall.

She persisted in her studies of art and became a high authority on Chinese porcelain, jade, Georgian silver, 18th-century furniture and Victorian papier-mache tables and chairs. So expert did she become in these specialized subjects that many dealers valued her advice.

With such qualifications she was precisely the person to take over Buckingham Palace. At the beginning of the century it was a rather grubby and dingy pile at the end of the mall.

Victoria thought a couple of bathrooms were enough in a dwelling of 400 rooms, and Edward VII apparently was never quite persuaded that electric lighting was here to stay. Queen Mary introduced plumbing on a lavish scale and she brightened the palace with 2,000 lights.

DISTRESSING GALLERY

The celebrated picture gallery distressed her artistic sense. Masterpieces were crowded one over the other almost to the ceiling. Mary insisted on a skylight as big as the room, a crimson color scheme was replaced by olive green, and she laid down the injunction that the fabulous pictures gathered by many kings and princes must be at eye level.

By the time Mary had finished, two-thirds of the pictures had been banished from the room. They were spread over other walls of the palace.

By the time she was widowed, in 1936, she was being called "Grandmother England." Many years still remained for her to impress the times with her personality.

Ag Department Needs Shakeup

President Eisenhower's plan for reorganization of the Department of Agriculture appears to be timely and should be approved by Congress. Most observers of government have long felt that the sprawling agricultural bureaucracy needed a major overhaul.

In fact, there had been definite improvements during the last months of the previous administration in consolidating and eliminating useless bureaus and excess personnel. Although some phases of the Hoover Commission's recommendations had been carried out, they had not touched the basic reorganization needs.

Of all governmental departments, that of agriculture appears to have experienced the most haphazard growth. Bureaus or agencies that were set up to do an immediate job, some during the war years, were allowed to expand beyond the need and to exist past their time of usefulness.

Any moves to simplify the very complex operations within the agency and "to place the administration of farm programs close to the state and local levels and to adapt the administration of the programs of the department of regional, state and local conditions" seem sensible and in keeping with goals of increasing effectiveness and efficiency.

President Eisenhower, who has the advice of a highly capable corps of businessmen to advise him on reorganization of the executive department, will find hearty support throughout the nation to his efforts to achieve efficiency and economy in government administration in all agencies.

Jesse Draper's Plan For Creek Endorsed

With Atlanta the word "Peachtree" is distinctive and unique. No other city has its Peachtree Street and its Peachtree Creek.

We've done right well by the street, but the creek has been neglected. Now Councilman Jesse Draper proposes that we make amends by turning the famous Peachtree stream into a creekway parkway.

The Draper recommendation deserves full support and action. Given the proper attention, the creek can be made a beautiful asset to Atlanta, fully in keeping with the rich name it bears.

Queen Mary's Death Marks End of Epoch

The death of Britain's Dowager Queen Mary is an occasion for mourning wherever the principles and heritages of Western civilization are held dear. For the proud old queen had become a stanch symbol of the virtues and individual traits of character and strength we associate with the heirs of the Greek and Roman liberal philosophies and the followers of Christian ethics.

To the British and to most Western peoples, the queen was a living connection with the past. She provided a bridge to the grand old Victorian Age, which, with all its faults, has left an indelible imprint upon modern civilization. With her examples of self-discipline and devotion to duty, she served to inspire men and women everywhere.

Queen Mary, from the queer-looking hats to her animosity for the telephone, was first and always an individual, but an individual who put duty before self. Throughout the panorama of her life, during which she saw battered Britain emerge proud and still the champion of freedom in a world that seemed determined to return to tyranny, she stood steadfast in her devotion to the ideals, manners, and principles that have extended British influence into every corner of the globe.

Yes, the Dowager Queen Mary will long be remembered. We extend our sympathy to the British who loved her. We in America will miss her and will long remember and respect her contributions to Western life.

Probes Were Intended To Aid Legislation

While congressional investigations serve a useful purpose, it is becoming increasingly evident that the American public is getting alarmed with the trend that tends to make this the primary function of the House and Senate.

There are limits to which these investigations can go without abridging the fundamental rights of freedom of the individual. The power to investigate was not granted Congress to agitate political questions nor to allow it to regiment public opinion.

The power to conduct probes was not given Congress in order that it might blacken reputations of citizens and undermine the morale of public servants for political gain. It was not granted to harass and terrify citizens to the point of suicide nor to improve the political fortunes of men like McCarthy, Velde, and a few others.

The power to investigate was granted Congress for one purpose—to allow it to gather information on which legislation might be based.

It is evident that the investigating business is getting out of hand. In 1951, there were 225 probes and this number had grown in 1952 to 236. At the present rate, all records will be shattered in 1953, with investigations of the probers being the ultimate. Intent on providing themselves with headlines, many lawmakers are giving little attention to their job of making laws.

If investigations are necessary to provide legislation, well and good. But if the multiple probes are interfering with the primary duty of Congress to make laws, and if they are invading the field of local government and individual rights, they are against the best interests of the American people. What legislation, for instance, could come out of an investigation of schools and churches unless it be aimed at freedom of information and freedom of religion?

Spring Has Long Been A Time for Moving

The Boston Braves move to Milwaukee, the Fraternal Order of Eagles moves its headquarters from Kansas City to Cincinnati, the TVA moves offices from Knoxville to Muscle Shoals.

Taft moves closer to the administration, McCarthy moves for a hearing, Gromyko moves for a veto.

For long, spring has been moving time, so all is in the normal run of affairs. Not even time stands still.

South Gains Cattle Faster Than West

No other section of the United States has had the increase in cattle population that the South Atlantic region has in the last eight years.

Department of Commerce reports show the gain in the seaboard states from Delaware south to Florida at 24 per cent as compared to only 13 per cent in what we have always considered "cattle country," that is, the West.

Those who have traveled the Southeast extensively hardly need the Commerce department reports to catch the trend. They've seen it in the pastures on the hoof as many of our broad acres have gone to grass.

This and other progress in agriculture combines with increased industrial activity to give the New South a broad base and a better balance.

Alabama Applauds Milk Price Cut

For the first time in years, the Alabama State Milk Control Board has reduced the price of milk.

It heard all the usual arguments, but also new ones—principally the comment of some distributors that milk sales were falling. There was an evident fear of milk being priced out of the market.

The producers, from all reports, offered their usual contentions, that costs were higher, that they were not making any money "as is," and naturally fought against a decrease.

The producers' problem is either unique in Alabama, or else there is too much dairying inefficiency, or dairying on too small a scale to be profitable.

We cannot ignore the fact that milk is produced in a lot of states no better off agriculturally than Alabama, and for much lower costs. The argument of, "Give us time to build herds, raise pastures," and so on, has been going on so long it has whiskers.

The board had promised when it granted the most recent 1-cent increase after a severe drouth, that it would cut the price unless evidence was produced showing a clear need for maintaining the higher price. The evidence was not forthcoming, and there was a plentiful supply of milk. The board's duty was clear; it fulfilled it.

Free Competition System Vindicated

WASHINGTON—The American system of free competition has been vindicated not only by the removal of government controls but by the announcement that one large motorcar manufacturer, without regard to what its competitors might do, has boldly reduced prices.

For many years the American people have had it dinned in their ears that American industry is controlled by trusts which fix prices and that a few large companies, by dominating the field, control the market for their products. Democrats have inveighed against what they called "oligopoly" and demagogues in trade-union forums have denounced large business as monopolistic.

The demonstration which the Chrysler Corp. has just given effectively refutes any such argument. The announcement of a price decrease does not necessarily mean that all companies will follow suit.

The significance of the Chrysler action is that the public generally has been asked to believe, ever since price controls were imposed a decade or more ago, that removal of restrictions on price or output necessarily leads to higher prices to the consumer. Again and again the Democratic administrations have insisted on retaining laws to continue price restrictions so as really to influence the course of the economy while opponents have argued for freedom from such restraints.

Today, as most of the controls are being lifted, there are some products and raw materials which have gone up slightly in price while others have come down. Sometimes price rises are necessary after controls are lifted so as to correct inequities in the cost picture which couldn't be cured under controls. But, in the long run, prices are brought down as efficiency with new machinery makes quantity production less expensive.

The true importance of the price reduction by the Chrysler Corp. is that it emphasizes the return of a supply-and-demand situation in America. It is an application of the principle that no monopoly should be permitted to hold up the consumer by a concerted arrangement of competitors to fix prices. Unfortunately, there are monopolistic factors that are not covered by law.

Thus, a nationwide bargaining instrument in the form of a big labor union can fix the price of important products by fixing the labor cost. Larger companies can absorb the extra expenses, but smaller ones often cannot. Yet they are expected to pay the same rates of wages as the bigger fellows. This results in forcing smaller companies to beg the larger ones to take them over. That's one way competition is cut down.

The automobile industry is a sharply competitive industry and in its history many large companies have been built out of smaller ones while still others have fallen by the wayside.

'Change' Pattern Assumes Shape

WASHINGTON—Gradually the pattern of "the change" promised by Republicans is beginning to assume form here. It devolves upon the reporter to fit the pieces together to give them meaning, so that, whether you happen to like the nature of the change or not, you may be able to understand some things that will occur henceforth to affect you in your daily living and your business.

As forecast here before the new administration took office, it is now revising the personnel of various commissions and special agencies that have been created by Congress through the years to protect the public interest in important ways. It is thus reshaping their policies to create what is known around here as "a more favorable climate" for business, though this, as will be shown, does not necessarily mean small business. Nor, above all, does it mean the consumer.

Take, for example, public housing. Fifteen years ago, Congress established a purpose of eliminating slum areas, both city and rural, and replacing them with clean, decent abodes at reasonable rentals by a measure of financial assistance to local communities.

The new head of the Housing and Home Finance Administration is Albert M. Cole, lame duck Republican congressman from Kansas, who devoted himself in the House of Representatives to fighting bitterly the housing acts that he now is administering. His appointment was loudly protested in the Senate, but he was confirmed with only 18 votes against him.

Another agency in which millions all over the country now have a stake is the Rural Electrification Administration in the Department of Agriculture through which, by means of loans to co-operatives, the benefits of electricity have been spread far and wide to America's farms.

The REA act specifically forbids politics in the appointment of its administrative officials, and a 10-year term was fixed for its directing head, REA administrator. A few days ago Claude Wickard, former Secretary of Agriculture who held that post, was asked by the White House to get out pronto, though his term still had two years to run. He got out and is now back on his farm in Indiana.

REA has been fought constantly by the private utilities. While it is so thoroughly grounded now among its participating cooperatives that they are alert to its administration, there is a threat to its further expansion. The administrator can be influential in expansion policy. Consequently, there is lively interest on who will succeed Mr. Wickard as well as whether other officials eventually will be weeded out to make places for political appointees.

Human Nature Is Still Paradoxical In Spite of Its Boasts of Freedom

Alto—In spite of all our boasts of freedom there seems to be a trait within many which invites slavery. It takes some queer turns. In a kingdom the subjects take pleasure in bowing down to some crowned head, often not as worthy as their own. Here in the United States women often enslave themselves to their house. They scrub, polish, mop and clean all their life; meanwhile, they visit with delight the woods and parks, gaily tripping over 8,000 miles of earth, yet they start back aghast if they discover a bit of this same earth within their house.

The British still stage pageants devoted to the memory of that arch fiend and wife-killer, Old Henry VIII, who divided his time between debauchery and murder. The sturdy English yeomen seemed proud to be his slaves. He doomed them to death with a drunken nod, yet they welcomed his brutality with an enthusiasm which exists even today. Human nature can be so astounding.

He Wonders If Cleveland, Jefferson Were Wrong

Thomaston—I am now an old man sitting on the sidelines and just wondering. Wondering if Thomas Jefferson was talking through his hat when he said "The least governed people are the best governed."

Wondering if Grover Cleveland was all wrong when he said "It is the duty of the citizen to support the government and not the government the citizen." Did George Washington mean what he said when, in his matchless farewell address, he said this nation should avoid all entangling alliances with foreign nations?

But some may say we have advanced since those old codgers "spoke their piece." History is replete with the fate of nations who have advanced—into oblivion.

No Utopia Is Possible As the Situation Exists

Emory—Wonder what poor old Sir Thomas More would say now about the chances of man ever building a Utopia, with the State Milk Board refusing to reduce milk prices, the governor helping himself to a raise, Senator McCarthy splashing red paint on everyone in Washington, Georgia's teachers remaining notoriously underpaid, and Georgia still further retarding its development with a literature censorship board. All is woe. JOHN SWIFT.

UMT Is Called a Threat To Democratic Principles

New Hartford, N. Y.—By adopting Universal Military Training we would be jeopardizing the foundations of our free democracy and parroting the totalitarianism we profess to abhor. Coercion can never be democratic—if it were, the armies of Hitler and Malenkov would be prime examples. The army officer-caste system flagrantly repudiates the essence of democracy, i. e., the equality of all men, and maintains a rigid discipline designed to turn men into tools and individual energy into mass force.

Kentuckian Raps Condition Of Milledgeville Hospital

Glasgow, Ky.—It was with pleasure that I read in the Louisville Courier-Journal of what is being accomplished in Georgia in the way of making libraries accessible to many schools by means of the bookmobile.

But what I read in the Bridgeport, Conn., Post of the deplorable conditions in the mental institution at Milledgeville, the next to the largest mental hospital in the world, was most distressing. If the people of your state do not take steps to investigate and remedy these conditions, it is the duty of people outside the state to call attention to them. ESTELLA BROOKS.

Sniped-At Dulles Must Know by Now How Predecessor Dean Acheson Felt

WASHINGTON—The State department under the Eisenhower administration is beginning to suffer the same sort of attack from the same irresponsible die-hard sources that came to be habitual during the preceding Truman regime.

After being called a liar and a falsifier by such right-wing extremists as Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin and Pat McCarran of Nevada, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles must feel a kindred spirit for his predecessor, Dean Acheson, who faced a fire of similar abuse.

The fight has not reached the stage yet where Mr. Dulles is accused of harboring Communists in the State department, but it is getting near that. He is charged with giving clearance to persons for important appointments under the department who are bad security risks, which amounts to the same thing.

After preliminary skirmishing, matters have come to a head on the nomination of Charles E. Bohlen as American ambassador to Moscow. Even after the Senate foreign relations committee unanimously reported the Bohlen nomination the fight did not let up.

It was thus evident, as a conservative publication like the New York Times has been quick to point out, that "the fundamental break long expected between the Eisenhower administration and the predominantly Republican Senate right wing was now at hand, just two months from Inauguration Day."

Sooner or later there will have to be a showdown between the White House and the Senate die-hards. Key administration officials now concede this is inevitable.

Under the leadership of such irrepressible men as McCarthy and McCarran, one a Republican and the other a Democratic extremist, the skirmishing will continue. It will be just a matter of time before they find some new target to shoot at in the State department, with Secretary Dulles under fire more or less constantly all the while.

Long-time associates of General Ike say that behind his calm exterior he has a temper that is capable of being aroused. There is no expectation that he will restrain it indefinitely. The surprising thing is perhaps that he has shown as much restraint as he has already. Calling Secretary Dulles a liar is equivalent to hurling the same charge at the President, since he made the same evaluation of the Bohlen loyalty file as his No. 1 cabinet officer and found nothing in it.

One thing seems certain, and that is that the President will not allow critics of the State department to have a free hand indefinitely in carrying on their attacks. He is bound to put his foot down, and when he does it is extremely unlikely that the country will fail to support him, considering the fact that he ran some 5,000,000 votes ahead of his party in the November election.

Whatever You Do, Payday Comes

In Jesus' story of the laborers in the vineyard, those who came at the 11th hour were paid the same as those who worked all day. That brings up the question of God's reward for the faithful. There is an old 16th century prayer which says: "Teach us to labor and not to ask for reward save that of knowing that we do Thy will."

But if you read the New Testament, you will find Jesus talking quite a bit about rewards—"Great is your reward in heaven" (Matt. 5:12), "He shall in no wise lose his reward" (Matt. 10:42), "Your reward shall be great" (Luke 6:35).

Weatherhead quotes an old Spanish proverb which says: "Take what you want, take it and pay for it." Life is about like that. We have freedom to "take what we want." If the supreme passion of one is to make money, he likely will succeed. If one wants fame, education, or whatever it may be, he can take it, but also he must pay for it. It means he must pay in hard work, concentration, long hours.

If one chooses sin, eventually there is a payday. If one follows God, there also is a payday. If the pay is bad, we call it consequences; if the pay is good, we call it reward. As to the reward one receives, God decides. Many we put last, God will put first, because He knows all the circumstances.

Here are two young women who both wish to dedicate their lives as missionaries. One goes to school, is sent to the mission field and renders a conspicuous service. The mother of the other suddenly becomes ill and is an invalid for many years. Her daughter must stay and care for her.

After many years the mother dies but now the daughter must content herself with less thrilling service. The world may judge the service of the two differently, but God knows better how to judge.

Suppose, however, because the second girl could not enter the field of service she had planned, she had become bitter and resentful. And that is a very real temptation. There are a lot of people who say, "I missed the bus, there is nothing left for me." It isn't hard to serve. The very service itself is a thrilling experience. What is far harder is waiting for the chance.

We like football. It is a rough game in which the player takes some hard knocks, but there is a thrill about it. There is the cheering of the crowd, the writeups in the paper, the satisfaction of playing the game. The hardest position to play on the football team is sitting on the bench. Nobody applauds the bench-sitter. All he can do is wait, hoping for a chance to play.

The good substitute remains ready whenever the coach calls. In the great game of life it seems that God keeps a lot of people waiting. But be assured He doesn't forget us and He would have us remain free of bitterness. It is ours to do our best and leave the rewards to Him.

Leo Aikman

He's the Man Of Their Dreams

The "Perfect Husband?" Oh, yes, I did say, didn't I, that I was working on an answer to the "Perfect Wife." There comes a card from R. H. Jackson Sr., 128 Rawson St., S. W., Atlanta, asking, "What is a perfect husband? Is he real?" Not real, Mr. Jackson, really. But the women say, "We can dream, can't we?" Here's a general idea of the man they've conjured up. This "Perfect Husband" is a composite developed from interviews with a number of ladies and an observation of others.

First, the average woman expects of the "Perfect Husband" largely what the average man would exact from the "Perfect Wife"—that he arise first, turn off the alarm, turn on the heat and the coffee, go out and get the paper, and so on.

Beyond that, naturally she wants him to make more money than she can spend.

She doesn't want him to help with the housework. The source of that statement is Dr. D. Paul Smelser, research director for a big soap outfit who keeps 75 young women touring the nation and quizzing more than 450,000 housewives annually.

Dr. Smelser says a woman doesn't want her husband to help with the housework. I know what you're saying, girls. You're saying Dr. Smelser should have his mouth washed out with some of his own soap.

Whether the average wife wants help with the housework or no, she definitely expects the "Perfect Husband" to drop his book, his newspaper, his TV program and his voice to mend the broken crockery, fix the bathroom lock, or break loose the sticking drawer.

The ideal man remembers birthdays, anniversaries and other special occasions without being told, I am told. The remembrance doesn't have to be lavish as long as it is his idea. Or as one woman said, "I would rather have a sock on the nose that he thought up himself than a diamond necklace I had to ask for."

I am told further that the "Perfect Husband" never eats for lunch what she is surprising him with at dinner; that he is well-dressed at all times, but requires a minimum of closet space.

A further appraisal of this paragon of husbandly virtue is: "He must be a strong man, master of all men and envy of all women, but she must be able to wrap him around her finger. He must be popular with the boys, but spend the nights at home with her. He must be well-received by the women, but heaven help if he dances with the same woman more than once."

And so it goes and the further it goes the more unattainable the standard.

But as with wit, the soul of a good definition is brevity. The spinster whom I interviewed hit closest to the mark when she said, "The 'Perfect Husband?' Why, that's easy. He's the man I'm looking for, of course."

Bronze Star Presented To College Park Marine

By JIMMY WALKER

A College Park Marine lieutenant has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for his actions as an impromptu mortar fire observer under intense enemy fire in Korea.

Lt. Chester T. Jones, son of Mrs. Lutie W. Jones, 304 Temple Ave., who was serving with a Marine infantry company, "displayed exceptional courage and leadership . . . in the absence of a forward observer," the citation read.

Under heavy enemy mortar, small-arms and artillery fire and adverse weather conditions, Lt. Jones pin-pointed accurate fire against the enemy, inflicting several casualties, the citation said.

Atlanta Sfc. Daniel R. Simmons is stationed as a motor sergeant with the 545th Military Police Company, 1st Calvary Division in Japan. He is the husband of Mrs. Johanna Simmons, 2150 Sylvan Cir., N. E.

Sgt/1c Simmons

Refused To Withdraw

Another Georgian, Sgt. Clyde R. Floyd of Cedartown, was awarded the Bronze Star recently for refusing to withdraw from his observation post and for remaining to direct mortar fire which hindered an enemy assault.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Floyd of Rt. 1, Sergeant Floyd while serving with a unit of the Eighth Army was a member of a 17-man patrol on Nov. 2, 1952. The patrol was ordered to assault "Jackson Heights" hill, and as they neared the top they encountered intense fire from an enemy platoon.

The sergeant and his patrol leader remained at the telephone, directing fire while the patrol withdrew. When the patrol leader was wounded, Floyd remained behind to cover the evacuation.

Here's what other Atlanta area residents are doing:

Donald G. Summers, a Hapeville ROTC cadet attending Gordon Military College, will participate in advanced field training at a Ft. Benning infantry summer camp in June.

Two Atlanta Army officers are attending a special administrative course for Third Army officers at Ft. Benning. They are: Brig. Gen. Carl T. Sutherland, son of Mrs. T. D. Sutherland, 1135 Ormewood Ave., S. E., and Capt. Harry B. Horsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Horsey Sr., 1191 W. Paces Ferry Rd., N.W.

Atlanta Lt. Col. William T. Martin was recently promoted from major while assigned to the intelligence section of the chief of Army field forces at Ft. Monroe, Va. Marietta's Gen. John R. Hodge is commander of the Army field forces.

Pfc. William B. Willis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Willis Sr., 1565 Olympian Way, S. W., won the sharpshooter medal on the rifle range at Parris Island Marine Base during his recruit training. He shot a 217 score out of a possible 250.

Pfc. Willis

Decatur Marine Sgt. John W. MacMillar III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. MacMillar Jr., 192 Conway Rd., was awarded the Purple Heart Oct. 27 for wounds received in action against the enemy in Korea. Sergeant MacMillar is now stationed at the Marine barracks, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

Recently graduated from OCS training at Fort Riley, Kans., Isaac N. Galanti has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army. He is the son of Nace I. Galanti, 1275 Rock Springs Rd., Northeast.

Emory Singers Plan Concert April 17

The Emory University Glee Club will be presented in concert Friday, April 17, at E. Rivers School Auditorium by the St. Nicholas Chapter of St. Philip's Cathedral.

The program will include many of the romantic, classical and spiritual selections which will be sung during the glee club's forthcoming European tour. An eight-minute tone poem by Stephen Vincent Benet on "Daniel and the Lion" will highlight the concert.

The club will return Sunday from a tour of Florida, Cuba and the Bahamas.

Wage Trend Here Is Facing Federal Study

A survey to amass information on salary and wage trends in the Atlanta area over the past three years will be undertaken by the Bureau of Labor Statistics during April.

Armed forces representatives concerned with the wage situation for their civilian employees will meet April 2 with Brunswick A. Bagdon and L. B. Woytych of the BLS regional office here to co-ordinate plans for the survey.

BLS field representatives will visit 185 business establishments for data to provide business, labor and government agencies with current information on Atlanta's salary and wage structure. Preliminary results will be available in late April, he said.

Once again the King Optical Co. presents the most astounding offer in optical history. For a limited time of One Week Only, we offer you the Rim-King, with a genuine engraved Gold Filled Bridge. This is positively the last word in styling, looks and durability. Combines the strength and beauty of the "Tortoise Shell" color, hand carved and polished Zylonite, and the smartness and invisibility of a Rimless mounting. Featherweight, comfortable and good to look at. Buy now—Sale lasts this week only.

One Price! You Just Can't Pay More! Lenses ground to your exact needs, regardless of prescription or lens strength required. Your choice of the RIM-KING or 100 styles, shapes or colors. All at one price—the same price to everybody. (Bifocals, if desired, $4.98 additional.) YOU JUST CAN'T PAY MORE!

100 STYLES, SHAPES AND COLORS
● For Men ● For Women ● For Children

No Kick-backs—No Extras—Just $8.98
Frankly, our difficulty is convincing the public that they can purchase complete glasses at the one price, of $8.98. After being "flim-flammed" for years by people who advertise one price, then charge for "extra tint," "extra shape," "extra strong correction" and extra high profits, it is understandable that the one price of $8.98, with no extras, irrespective of the type or style of frame, is hard to believe. Now prove to yourself, without cost or obligation, that you can get complete glasses for $8.98!

REPAIRS

OCULISTS' PRESCRIPTIONS
Also filled at SAME price. Your prescription promptly filled.

We couldn't make them better if we charged $18

$8.98 COMPLETE WITH FRAMES AND LENSES

$1,000.00 REWARD!
We will pay $1,000.00 to anyone who can purchase glasses here for more than the price quoted in this advertisement. Reward offer guaranteed by two leading London, Eng., Insurance Companies.

WHY PAY MORE?
Though the price is low, the quality of our glasses is beyond compare. If we wanted to make glasses to sell for $25.00, we couldn't use finer materials or better workmanship than that which goes into these glasses.

Agnes Scott Scholarship Awards Set

Scholarship awards of more than $6,000 to high school seniors will be made by Agnes Scott College, spokesmen announced here Wednesday.

Twelve entrants in an annual scholarship competition conducted by the college won Agnes Scott tuition awards, with applicants from 88 high schools in 18 states and three foreign countries competing.

President Wallace M. Alston also announced Monday a new offer of scholarships to seniors of Atlanta, Fulton County, Decatur, and DeKalb County high schools. The college will give a maximum of five $300 awards to applicants of the two-county area. Seniors interested in the awards should write to the director of admissions at Agnes Scott, Dr. Alston said.

In the competition already ended, first award of $1,500, to be used over the four-year period, went to Miss Ellen Jane Bywaters of Kansas City, Kan. Grants of $1,000 each, also over four years, were won by Miss Rebecca Deal of Charlotte, N. C., Miss Priscilla Goodwin of 1732 N. Rock Springs Rd., N. E., and Miss Dorothy Nelms of Selma, Ala.

Eight one-year awards were made as follows: $300 to Miss Dorothy Rearick of Miami, Fla.; $200 each to Miss Catharine Crosby, Sendai American School, Japan; Miss Evalyn Hosterman of Bowling Green, Ky.; Miss Jean Price of Dansville, N. Y.; Miss Virginia Redhead of Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Martha Anne Richardson of Richmond, Va.; Miss Lucy Roberts of Marietta, and Miss Miriam Frances Smith of Charlotte, N. C.

A Speaker for Mantle

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 25—For what it's worth: After a couple of seasons watching Mickey Mantle at work for the Yankees, Tris Speaker made an astonishing admission for an old centerfielder the other day. "This boy's liable to be better than any of us," said the man who wrote the book on how to play the outfield. . . . Everyone who writes of the athletic art around here is still scratching his head about the odd twists and turns of that suit against Adolph Rupp. The general consensus: If that Lexington lawyer hasn't got the goods on the Baron, he'd best get his passport in order. . . . And whatever became of Pat Ward?

Old Cracker Connie Ryan has a hankering to manage, but not until he's played his big league career down to the cob. "I figure I've got three or four more years, then I can start looking," said the Phils' second baseman. . . . Johnny Mize rates Ed Brandt, who seldom ever had a winning season when he worked for the Braves, Dodgers and Pirates, as the toughest left-hander he ever faced. . . . Charlie Williams' new title in the Crackers' dressing room: "Gabby." And not because of a likeness to a Hayes of the same name.

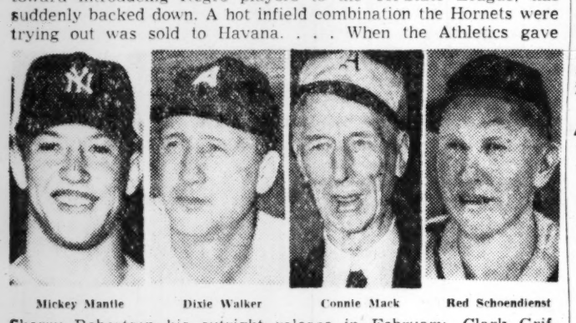
Bisher

At least one or two Boston baseball writers had an open mind about the Braves' withdrawal to Milwaukee. "I don't blame Lou Perini," said one who preferred to remain anonymous. "We (Boston sports writers) got nobody to blame but ourselves. We drove him out of town." . . . In this particular field the Braves will score a decided saving. They've been picking up the tab for eight or 10 Boston writers. In Milwaukee there are only two papers, each welcoming the big leaguers with loving embrace. . . . Perini gave the Beantown people their come-uppance with one bitter shot: "We'd have left next year, even if we'd have won a pennant and drawn a million at the gate."

Cardinal Red Schoendienst tells one about the racing greyhound that thought he had it made, an event Red witnessed at a Florida track. "The dogs got tangled up and went down in a heap," he said, "and this dog got confused and took off in the wrong direction. When he saw the mechanical rabbit coming his way, he slowed down and took aim. This was his big moment. He'd been chasing that bunny for years and never caught it. He met the rabbit head on. He was knocked about six feet in the air, came down cold and was carried off the track on a stretcher."

Czech and Double Czech

Washington's Charlotte farm, which had made a bold move toward introducing Negro players to the Tri-State League, has suddenly backed down. A hot infield combination the Hornets were trying out was sold to Havana. . . . When the Athletics gave



Mickey Mantle — Dixie Walker — Connie Mack — Red Schoendienst

Sherry Robertson his outright release in February, Clark Griffith's nephew turned down a $10,000 offer to join the Cubs and now sells automobiles in Washington. . . . And whatever became of Joe Kuhel?

Czechoslovakia now leads Russia's farm chain in the production of major league performers. Both Elmer Valo, the A's old head, and Carl Linhart, the Detroit rookie, were born there. . . . A raven-haired lady waiting on tables at the super-ultra Vinoy Park Hotel in St. Petersburg, where the Braves-to-Milwaukee switch occurred, admitted a big league connection. She is the mother of Early Wynn, and for both of them it's a long way from Hartford, Ala. . . . Nobody has had the heart to tell Gene Mauch what hex-man Tom Hurd's return to Memphis means to the Crackers.

Sometimes you don't know who's the genius, Casey Stengel or the writers who've made him one. . . . Ex-Cracker voice Jim Woods, drafted by the Yankees, will be married when he stops off in Atlanta April 4 and carry a bride to New York with him, Gwen Carlson. . . . Name of the season: Angel Scull (pronounced Angel School), one of Washington's new Cuban people.

A's Have Corner on Antique Market

When a fellow introduced Sports Editor Day Kelley of the New York Times to a friend in Florida, he said, "This is the world's most widely unknown sports writer." The Times job is such a vast administrative operation that the sports editor's by-line is never seen. . . . Perhaps it's Connie Mack's influence, but the Athletics are scoring unusually high in the league of antiquity this year. Besides the oldest president in the majors, they also own the oldest pitcher and the oldest shortstop. . . . The tall, erect, long-striding Mr. McGillicuddy is 90. Bobo Newsom is 44. Eddie Joost is 37. And if it's not a first-division combination, Jimmy Dykes will feel 104.

"I knew how he felt about me being on the team, but when Dixie Walker saw we had a chance to win the pennant in '47, he came to me and told me things I was doing wrong and coached me every chance he got. He did it in the interest of the team. That's the spirit of the Dodgers."—Jackie Robinson on his reported difficulties with Walker. . . . A jest suggesting that Milt Jordan go back to the salt mines may not be accepted in the spirit with which it is made. The Detroit rookie pitcher worked in a salt mine last off-season. . . . Yankee followers are simply wild about Johnny Sain, who's pitching like the Sain of '48 this year. His impetuous sale to the Yanks represents one of the Braves' most serious mistakes in Boston.

Coatless National League umpires look like traffic cops and strike a rather sorry picture beside their American League compatriots, who still go in for formal wear. . . . Familiar sight at St. Petersburg: Dixie Walker tying into umpire Augie Guglielmo over a close play at first. . . . "This is a switch for me," said laryngitis-stricken Dizzy Trout, converting from pitcher to TV commentator this year. "Everybody's worried about their arms. I'm worried about my voice." . . . Selah.

FLAG IN FUTURE?

Nats Likened To Boys Of Bucky's '24 Team

ORLANDO, Fla., March 25—(UP)—Bustling Bucky Harris isn't as optimistic as his boss, Clark Griffith, but he thinks with any sort of luck his Washington Senators could be strong contenders this season.

The 83-year-old Griffith goes further than that. He likens the team to the famed 1924 Senators who won the pennant under Harris as their boy manager. He is convinced this current crew also can go all the way.

"Those teams are a lot alike," he said. "We've got youth and speed and hustle and we are going to be real dark horses. Practically everybody on the club is under 30 and that makes a difference in the long run."

First Cracker Group Arrives in Atlanta

Sleepy-Eyed Baseballers Get First Glimpse Of City as Plane Pulls in During Morning

By JESSE OUTLAR

At 1:36 Thursday morning, Captain W. H. Alexander landed Eastern's Constellation Flight 732W at the Atlanta Airport and the first group of Crackers were home for a new season.

"They tell me that this is the best baseball city in the minors," said sleepy-eyed Leo Cristante as he climbed down the ramp. And Coach Whit Wyatt answered, "It is."

"I hope I'm here long enough to find out," pitched in pitcher Bob Giggie as the 11 players got their feet on the ground. "I've got to take an Army physical this week, and probably won't be here long even if I make the club."

"This is my first trip here." Bill George, who'll hurl the Friday night opener against the Braves remarked. "You ever been here before?" he questioned Billy Barrett.

"Nope, but now that I'm here, I'd like to stay at least 154 games," the outfield candidate chuckled.

"First time I've been in Atlanta since 1950," pitcher Jack Taylor cut in, "and I hope I stay longer than I did then. It's a fine place to play ball in."

In a few minutes, pitcher Stan Slack, catcher Jimmy Pope, first baseman Bud Pfeiffer, George and Barrett would be getting their first glimpse of downtown Atlanta. For, by now, baggage was being claimed and the taxis were waiting to take most of the boys to the Ponce de Leon Hotel.

The remainder of the 27-man squad was making the trip north by car. Some planned to drive straight through, others to stop off.

For Atlantan Dick McMillin, a member of the Cracker air crew, it was far from a happy homecoming. He had gone to the Miami Beach training camp with high hopes of coming home a Cracker. Instead, he was out of the organization, possibly out of baseball.

Dick was sold to St. Peters-

Time Changed In Crax-Braves LaGrange Game

Starting time for the Saturday afternoon game between Milwaukee's Braves and the Crackers in LaGrange has been changed from 2 until 3 o'clock, Atlanta president Earl Mann announced Wednesday.

Special ceremonies by LaGrange officials preceding the game necessitated the change, Mann explained. Both teams return here Sunday for a 3 p. m. game to close the series.

Jim Konstanty Goes Route To Whitewash Detroit, 7-0

Nats Nip Bosox; Braves Beaten

LAKELAND, Fla., March 25—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers suffered their first defeat this spring by a National League team Wednesday as the Philadelphia Phillies shut them out, 7-0, in an exhibition game at Henley Field.

Jim Konstanty, who pitched the distance for the Phillies, allowed seven hits. But only Walt Dropo's single in the eighth inning was a solid drive. Konstanty's teammates helped him with four double plays.

Granville Hamner and Stan Lopata homered off the Tiger starting pitcher, Ned Garver. Del Ennis got a homer off Art Houtteman, who pitched the last three innings. Houtteman, who has been bothered by a sore arm, made his first appearance on the mound for the Tigers this season.

Nats Blank Bosox As Wood Homers

SARASOTA, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Ken Wood's long three-run homer was merely so much frosting on the cake Wednesday as the Washington Nats blanked the Boston Red Sox 4-0 in 10 innings.

The Nats counted their first tally when shortstop Johnny Lipon threw wide to first while trying to complete a double play which would have ended the inning.

Bob Porterfield and Moreno combined to blank the Sox and stretch Boston's scoreless streak through 22 innings.

Bradley on Carpet, Too, For 'Athletic Malpractice'

CHICAGO, March 25—(AP)—Oklahoma A&M, kingpin of the Missouri Valley Conference, and independent Bradley Wednesday were threatened with expulsion from the nation's strongest academic accrediting association mostly for alleged athletic malpractices.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Seondary Schools received a recommendation from its commission on colleges and universies that the two schools be disaccredited.

Oklahoma A. & M., where Coach Hank Iba's basketball teams have been perennial powers, was charged with subsidizing athletes and otherwise ignoring the North Central's strict athletic code, the commission recommended Oklahoma A. & M. be dropped from the list of accredited institutions effective July 1, 1953.

Bradley, located at Peoria, Ill., was said to be conducting an unsatisfactory athletic program and having educational weaknesses. It was recommended Bradley be placed on probation for the 1953-54 school year.

The recommendations later were approved by the association's executive committee. They now will be submitted to a general session of the association's annual meeting Friday.

Norman Burns of the University of Chicago, secretary of the commission, said if the full delegation ratifies the recommendations Oklahoma A&M would be dropped from accreditation July 1 "unless on a basis of an appeal the decision is changed before that time.

"This is just the beginning of the crack down on violators of the North Central's athletic code," Burns said. "Loss of accreditation is a blow to the prestige of an institution."

Action was taken against athletic practices in general, Burns said, and not any specific sport. He said no action is pending on any other schools at this meeting.

In Stillwater, IBA expressed astonishment at the recommendation.

He said A&M was complying fully with regulations of the NCAA and Missouri Valley Conference, and was involved in no practice that is not common to dozens of other major colleges.

Asked if he could explain why A&M and Bradley were singled out, he replied:

"We told the North Central inspectors the complete story of our athletic program when they were here recently. We told them the same thing that any other school would if they told the truth."

He added he was at a loss to explain the action and could make no further statement before conferring with Dr. Oliver S. Willham, A&M president, who was in Chicago at the school meeting.

The association is a 19-state group of 368 colleges and universities. Its academic approval is vital for prestige in the educational world and loss of accreditation would seriously handicap students or faculty members seeking to transfer to accredited schools.

BOXING

Araujo Wins From Davis In Breeze

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 25. (AP)—George Araujo kept himself in line for a promised lightweight title shot by winning a unanimous 10-round decision over outclassed and bleeding Teddy "Red Top" Davis in a nationally televised bout Wednesday night.

Araujo, a methodical worker with a pair of lightning hands, weighed 133½ to 133 for the Hartford, Conn., battler.

Referee Tony La Branch scored it 7-2-1, judge Herb Williams 8-2 and judge Charlie Bill 7-3, all in favor of Araujo.

Chicks at Last Sign Tom Fine

FORT PIERCE, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Pitcher Tom Fine, last of the holdouts, was added to the roster at the Memphis Chicks spring training camp here Wednesday.

Fine is the fifth holdover pitcher from last season's Dixie champions to sign up. He won eight, lost four last year after joining the Chicks in midseason.

Manager Luke Appling put the Chicks through a long workout in fundamentals with an extra session of batting practice. Their next exhibition is against Miami Friday.

Pels Slam Tulsa, 15-2, For Fourth Straight

ALEXANDRIA, La., March 25—(AP)—New Orleans of the Southern Association won its fourth straight exhibition baseball game by crushing Tulsa of the Texas League, 15-2, Wednesday.

Jim Monahan and Roy Lefevre hit homers in the third inning to help the Pels to a 5-0 lead.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Veteran right-handers Milo Johnson and Verne Williamson set down the Detroit Tigers' B team on six hits Wednesday as the Little Rock Travelers won the third of their last four exhibition games, 6-2.

The only single off Johnson in four innings was a single by Johnny Pesky in the fourth. Williamson, who came in with a 4-0 lead, yielded five hits the rest of the way.

Catcher Pierce McWhorter led the Travelers' 8-hit attack with a triple and a single. He got on base in his other two tries on a walk and an error. Shortstop George Bullard and third baseman Dave Jaska collected a pair of singles for Little Rock.

MELBOURNE, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Rangy Norman Fox twirled one of the finest exhibition performances Wednesday for the Nashville Vols as the Southern Association club defeated Sioux City, 3-1.

Fox, who allowed no walks and was seldom behind on a batter, gave up only one hit in his three-inning chore.

Bob Boring, infielder, was to report to the Vols Thursday.

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 25 (AP)—A hard-hitting Montreal club Wednesday scored three runs in the last two innings to down the Mobile Bears, 6-3.

Mobile pushed across single scores in the fourth and sixth innings to tie up the game at 3-3, but the International League champions touched Mel Himes for a run in the seventh and two more in the eighth, when the game was called on a time limit.

Jim Williams and Jack Lindsey supplied most of the Bears' batting power, with Williams collecting two triples and a double and Lindsey copping three singles.

LAKE WALES, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Don Leppert homered in the ninth inning to give the Kansas City Blues a close exhibition win over Birmingham Wednesday, 6-5.

It was the Blues' second spring training victory over the Barons.

Birmingham had staged a three-run rally in the top of the ninth to tie the game at 5-5.

In the ninth Birmingham's Dave Waters drove two tallies home when he singled with the bases loaded. The rally ended after Ernest Wingard singled to score Harold Grote.

WINTER GARDEN, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Roy Hawes, fighting to keep his job as regular Chattanooga Lookout first baseman, sparkled in an intrasquad game Wednesday in which the regulars beat the reserves, 17-7.

Hawes cracked out a homer and two singles and drove in five runs. He is dueling with Fred Taylor for the first base position. Taylor played in the American Association last year.

This battle is the highlight right now of an otherwise quiet camp. Noticeably absent, observers say, is the spirit and pep which marked the 1952 championship club.

Grid Browns Barter Rechichar, Nine Others for Five Colts

CLEVELAND, March 25—(AP)—The Cleveland Browns Wednesday swapped 10 players to the Baltimore Colts for five in a trade that each football coach felt would be a "big help" to his National League club.

The Browns obtained only one player they are sure of having next season—defensive tackle Don Colo, six-foot-five, 260-pounder who played last season for the Dallas Texans, whose franchise has been moved to Baltimore.

Other new Browns are tackle Mike McCormack and guard Herschel Forrester, former Dallas players now in military service which will last beyond the coming season; halfback John Petitbon, who went from Notre Dame to Dallas and is expecting a military call; and center Tom Catlin of Oklahoma, whose status with the armed forces won't be clarified until after his graduation.

Of 10 players sent to Baltimore, only four ever wore Browns' uniforms. Just two of those were used much last season—safety man Bert Rechichar, Tennessee halfback who was the Browns' No. 1 college draft choice a year ago, and guard Ed Sharkey, obtained from Dallas last spring and a veteran of four pro seasons. Halfbacks Carl Taseff and Don Shula, who returned late last season from military service, played for Cleveland in 1951 after college football at John Carroll here.

The Colts got Harry Agganis, Boston College passing ace currently under contract to the Boston Red Sox American League Baseball Club. The quarterback reportedly got $40,000 for signing a baseball contract which forbids him to play pro football.

Coach Keith Molesworth, however, is hopeful Agganis will change his mind. Should the Boston passer return to the game, he could be the big man in the deal.

Other players dealt to the Colts by the Browns were: Guard Elmer Willhoite, Southern Calif.; Art Spinney, Boston College end getting out of the armed forces; Gern Nagler, Santa Clara end; and tackles Owen Scheetz, Penn State co-captain, and Dick Batten, College of the Pacific.

Molesworth said the swap would "be a big help to us this fall," and Cleveland Coach Paul Brown said he was pleased to have Colo, "a proven performer," because Bob Gain, ex-Kentucky tackle, is leaving for the service.

LET'S TAKE a canoe trip! You've never done any canoeing? Then let's get in a little practice before we ballast the duffle and start our voyage.

We'll take the bow position while the oldtimer gives us a few pointers from the stern. Grasp the paddle with one hand over the handle and the other just above the blade. Keep your arms fairly straight but not stiff. Now dip your blade. Don't reach so far ahead for your water.

Relax now. Use your shoulders and let your body twist a little at the waist. When your lower hand is opposite your hip, put some power in your stroke and sweep the handle forward with your upper hand.

There! You've got it, and I'll bet you could keep that rhythm all day without getting tuckered out.

Just turn the blade away from the canoe a little at the end of each stroke. Then you won't sprinkle the duffle every time the paddle is lifted.

The oldtimer in the stern does the steering. The bow man should learn to "read" the water. He can detect underwater hazards by looking at the surface. He must warn the stern man about snags, rocks and logs that lie ahead.

In quickwater the bow will usually float away from a boulder, but look out for the stern.

We've swung a bit off our course. Notice the oldtimer in the stern. See how he turns the blade with an outward twist. That swings us back the way we want to go.

Short, quick strokes are the ticket when traveling. Don't dip the blade too deeply. Lean forward a little as you stroke. That's the swing that gets the most water past the boat.

It's a good idea to carry an extra paddle with you on canoe trips. Keep it lashed lightly to the thwarts. If you lose a paddle at a bad moment, you have another ready for instant use.

You'll like fishing and camping trips by canoe, but respect the whims of your highly maneuverable craft and play safe always.

• • •

YOU KNOW how popular aluminum canoes have become. They seem to relish rough use. They portage easily, and they're non-sinkable. Take a look at the Grummans at 53 Peachtree Street, N. E., in the Sporting Goods Department of the

VALDOSTA IMPORT HELPS

Returning Vets Give Smith Nine Darkhorse Look in City League

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Smith High's baseball Smithies, also-rans last year after being co-champions of the City League in 1951, face the 1953 barrier with that dark-horse look.

The Hill Street Blacksmiths, plying their wares for new head Coach Frank Erwin now that Carl Fletcher has gone over to help with the track team, have five solid, first-string citizens back from the varsity in Harold Reese, Claude Shaddix, Lewis Partain, Donald Ford and Gilbert Adair.

1953 SMITH ROSTER
CATCHERS—Harold Reese, Jimmy Rogers.
PITCHERS—Gilbert Adair, Billy Hall.
FIRST BASE—Bobby Keanum, Bobby Moore.
SECOND BASE—Morris Vaughn, Raymond Orrie.
SHORTSTOP—Bobby Lockridge.
THIRD BASE—Claude Shaddix.
OUTFIELD—Donald Ford, Lewis Partain, Calvin Appling.

They also have a secret weapon in six-footer Billy Hall, a 175-pound tenth grade refugee from Valdosta. The slim fellow not only looms as a top-flight right-handed pitcher but is tabbed as Smith's number one football quarterback next fall.

Key performers Reggie Ballard, Ken Lancaster, Ted Fowler, Bobby Duke, Jack Ellington, Bobby Harmon and Marvin Moon have been swept from the fold by graduation, but the Smithies still appear to be a potent diamond force.

Frank Erwin Claude Shaddix

Reese, 190-pound Georgia-bound football guard-quarterback, has moved in from the outfield to fill the Ballard brogans and is looking good. Jimmy Rogers will don mitt and mask at times and double as a utility infielder.

Adair, with three years yet to go, shows much promise as a pitcher after hurling and playing first base a year ago. The slim southpaw should develop into one of Atlanta's best all-round athletes. He and Hall probably will take care of all mound chores.

Shaddix, one of the better performers, will be at third when the Smithies open against Grady at Piedmont Park Tuesday. Fleet Paratin and tiny Ford, a sensation as a freshman last year, will patrol center and left fields. Calvin Appling, a nephew of Memphis manager Luke, has long-ball bat power and a strong throwing arm. He'll be in right.

Bobby Lockridge has the makings of a top-flight shortstop. Morris Vaughn, 1952 utility performer, and Raymond Orrie are dueling for the second base plot. Long Bobby Keanum, the basketball standout, and Bobby Moore are waging war for the first baseman's scoop. Keanum and Vaughn are tenth graders, Lockridge an 11th grader.

The lineup will have good balance as Adair, Hall, Ford, Partain and Vaughn bat left-handed, and Hall is a switch hitter. Only Adair, Ford and Partain throw from the unorthodox side.

CRACKER OCCUPATIONS

Pitchers George and Giggie Know How to Take That Long Walk

Bill Denney | Jack Taylor | Charley Williams | Monk Raines | Bob Giggie | Walt Bremer | Bill George | Art Fowler | Bill Barrett | Jesse Levan | Leo Cristante | Ralph Kennedy

By JESSE OUTLAR

Some postmen ring twice, but Atlanta Cracker pitcher Bill George doesn't ring at all if there is a vicious-looking dog around.

Mail carrier George has been bitten four times by the mutts on route in Summit, N. J. Despite the dogs, George likes his job and the mile walk every day keeps his legs in shape for the summer season.

Pitcher Bob Giggie is another Cracker who has winter occupation that requires a lot of walking. He's a floorwalker in a dime store in a Boston suburb.

Giggie says that it doesn't take long to learn the shoplifters. The most common species, he says, are women who keep lingering with large shopping bags.

Unlike George and Giggie pitcher Monk Raines spends most of the winter sitting down. He owns and operates a motel court in Edenton, N. C.

Though he doesn't want his boss to know it, shortstop Jack Caro says he had a "racket" as a delivery man with a Pensacola oil firm. "Easiest job I ever had," says Jack.

Outfielder Bill Barrett is the first railroad man to play for the Crackers since brakeman Bill Kennedy. Barrett is a fireman on a run out of Lafayette, La., and he guarantees all the fat boys that they'd get in condition on his job.

Pitcher Jack Taylor goes in for speed. He wheels an ambulance in Landis, N. C. Pitcher Bill Denney and outfielder Joe Andrews are other members of the motor transportation corps. They drive trucks.

Catcher Ralph Kennedy, who usually reports in fine condition is a farmer in Brunswick, Mo. and Coach Whit Wyatt is in the same profession at Buchanan. However, Whit has most of his place in pasture, and it's rumored that all he does is watch the cattle graze.

First baseman Jesse Levan is a construction foreman in Reading, Pa., and Pitcher Bill Conroy works in a Dedham, Mass., shipyard. First Baseman Hal Pfeiffer is employed in a sheet metal plant at Chicago, and Pitcher Leo Cristante is a dye maker for a Detroit firm.

Infielder Charlie Williams is a salesman in a New Orleans meat market, and Pitcher Larry Lassalle is a shipping clerk in the same city.

Manager Gene Mauch played winter league ball in Puerto Rico, and third baseman Vern Petty built himself a house in Gastonia, N. C.

Envy of 'em all is Art Fowler.

"All I do in the winter," the pitcher says, "is catch catfish in that creek near my house."

Beckers Top Mat Card

Wrestling returns to the city auditorium Friday night and Promoter Paul Jones has signed three television stars.

In the Australian tag team event, the Becker Brothers will face Jungle Boy, the wild brushman, and Jack Steele, with one fall to decide the winner. The match carries a 60-minute time limit.

The other main event will be a Southern heavyweight title match with Don McIntyre defending the title against Mayes McLain. This match will also be over the one fall, one hour time limit route. There will be two other matches to round out the card with action starting at 8:30.

Tech Nine Bows, 9-2, To Rollins

WINTER PARK, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Connie Mack Butler hit a home run with one man on base in the first inning and doubled to spark a three-run rally in the third inning, leading Rollins to a 9-2 baseball victory over Georgia Tech Wednesday.

Larry Morris homered for Georgia Tech's first run.

Bob Leader walked six Tech men in the first three innings but got out of trouble without allowing any runs by striking out seven. He walked nine and struck out nine altogether.

Although Tech made seven erros, there were only two unearned runs and errors were decisive.

Towns Takes Ten Bulldogs To Florida

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, March 25 — Coach Spec Towns will take 10 Georgia trackmen to the annual Florida relays at Gainesville Saturday.

The Bulldogs recently won the non-conference division of the annual Southern Indoor Games at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Those making the trip with their events are: Captain Jack Hooper, sprint medley relay, mile relay and 440 relay; Otho Dodd, sprint medley relay, mile relay and 440 relay; Kermit Perry, high hurdles, sprint medley relay, 440 relay; George Harrison, mile relay; Willis Sparks, sprint medley relay, mile relay; John Bell, mile relay and 440 relay; Guerry Barton, 440 relay; Charles Earnest, 440 relay; Jerry Griffin, shot put and discus; Bob Davis, discus.

Patterson In NCAA

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, March 25—Georgia's Reid Patterson, Southeastern Conference champion and record-holder in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle, will compete in those events in the 30th annual NCAA championship at Ohio State in Columbus, Ohio, Friday and Saturday.

Patterson, fifth in the NCAA 100 and 200 yard backstroke races last year as a sophomore, is undefeated this season in the freestyle sprints.

MacDonald May Open For Bucs

HAVANA, March 25—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates settled down to workouts in intra-squad games Wednesday because soccer teams have taken over Gran Stadium for the rest of the week.

Meanwhile, Manager Fred Haney said young Bill MacDonald may get the starting pitching assignment when the Bucs open the season in Brooklyn April 14.

READY FOR FOOTBALL AFTER BEATING BOOKS

ONE-PLATOON END

Henry Hair Ready To Rejoin Jackets

By EDWIN POPE

Henry Hair, one of Georgia Tech's brightest end prospects of recent times, will return to the squad with the opening of spring football practice Monday.

Hair, 6-2, 200-pound junior product of Atlanta's Marist, was ineligible last season.

"Henry applied himself to his studies and is eligible and ready to play again," head coach Bobby Dodd said Wednesday. "We'll be delighted to have him back."

Hair lettered as an offensive end in 1951 but this year will be faced with the common problem of adjusting to limited substitution play.

Other returning lettermen at ends are Co-Capt. Sam Hensley, seniors Dave Davis and Cecil Trainer and juniors Jimmy Durham and Buddy Jones.

Offensive end coach Sam Lyle long has been high on Hair, and his loss last season came as a jolt to the club.

"Hair is a rare type athlete," said Lyle. "He probably is as adaptable as anyone we have to one-platoon football. He's fast, tough and a good receiver."

Meanwhile, Dodd announced that linebacker Clyde Young, and end Chick Wills, both of whom have another season of eligibility remaining, will graduate this summer and not return for their final football year. Young is captaining

ADUG Falls Again, 11-8

LAKELAND, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Florida Southern outslugged University of Georgia's Atlanta Division Wednesday night, 11-8, for their fourth straight victory of the season.

Southern's squad scored four runs in the first on a double by Dick Maurno with one man on and two triples back to back from the bats of Charlie Selph and Al Huff. Phil Carruth then singled Hugg across. The Mocs added to it in the second with another double from Maurno and a triple by Selph.

burg when Manager Gene Mauch made the first cut in his squad last Monday. And he's still debating whether to report or retire.

Not many of the '53 Crackers have ever seen their home park, and they'll get their first official look Friday.

Manager Gene Mauch has no activity planned Thursday but Friday will be a full day and night. Uniforms will be issued and workouts staged before the home exhibition debut that night with the Milwaukee Braves.

Though there are some spots that must be plugged, Mauch was encouraged by the things accomplished in 18 days in Florida.

Both Mauch and Wyatt agree that this is the best conditioned outfit with which they've trained.

Final drill at the Beach ended Wednesday at 11:07. Wyatt started the workout early, so that the players could get an early start home.

President Earl Mann, who flew home Tuesday, hasn't decided whether the Crackers will return here again next spring.

Mann has a three-year option on use of Flamingo Park, provided no major league team wants to move in.

GOLFING ROUNDUP

Horton Smith Only Man To Play 'All Masters'

By BERT PRATHER

Blond Horton Smith, still boyish looking at 44, will not be ranked among the top contenders for the 17th Augusta Masters scheduled for Augusta National Golf Club, April 9-12, but he will carry one record into the tournament that can never be broken. He's the only player who has completed every round of every Masters tournament.

Bert Prather

Horton, now president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, is also the only player to win two Masters in a three-year period. He won the first in 1934 and came back to take the crown again in 1936.

Campus King Returns

Harvie Ward, the boy who was king of North Carolina's University campus a few years ago, will return for a hero's welcome next Monday. The British Amateur champion, who won the National Collegiate golf title while a student at UNC, will engage in an exhibition match at Finley Golf Club course Monday afternoon with professionals Johnny Palmer, Dr. Cary Middlecoff and National Open champion Julius Boros.

Early Bird

Lyndon Daniels of Griffin is the first golfer to enter the Druid Hills Dogwood tournament, according to tournament chairman W. D. P. McDowell. Invitations were mailed out last Saturday. The tournament, set for April 12-19, annually draws around 400 entries. Ward is defending champion.

Orioles Hammer A's Pitching for 8-3 Win

HOOLWOOD, Fla., March 25—(AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics' hit famine was still very much in evidence Wednesday as the American Leaguers took it on the chin, 8-3, at the hands of the Baltimore Orioles.

The A's managed to run up nine base blows but they just didn't come at the right time.

The losers used Tom Tyson, Leo Matarrazzo and Mike Kume, but the trio managed to fool none of the International League batters. Tyson was charged with the loss.

Hitting star for the winners was Stan Jok, third baseman who played last season for the A's farm at Ottawa.

Chisox Take Finale From Giants by 6-3

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 25—(AP). Saul Rogovin and Harry Dorish limited the Giants to four hits Wednesday as the Chicago White Sox defeated the New Yorkers, 6-3. It was the final meeting of the spring between the two clubs with the Giants winning the series, three games to two.

The Giants did all their hitting off Rogovin who went the first four innings and gave up two runs in the first and another in the third.

GILLIAM IS DRESSEN'S CHOICE AT SECOND, ROBINSON THIRD

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 25—(AP)—Manager Charley Dressen said Wednesday his experiments with the Brooklyn Dodgers' infield have been a complete success and that Jackie Robinson will open the season at third base and rookie Junior Gilliam at second base.

Junior Gilliam

With Peewee Reese at shortstop and Gil Hodges at first base, Billy Cox, acknowledged as the best defensive third baseman in baseball last season, will be relegated to a utility role.

Dressen's announcement followed three weeks of extensive experimentation which reached a peak recently when E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi, the club's vice-president, denied reports the shifts were creating dissension among the white and Negro players.

SOUTHERN RELAYS AHEAD

City Track Wars Open Today at Cheney Site

Bass High's Hugh Gatlin, who won the Georgia Class AA 100-yard dash crown last year even though he was only a part-time track performer, will be the only state title defender in the field when the City League opens its 1953 track and field season on Cheney Stadium cinders Thursday afternoon.

Gatlin, also the first-string catcher for Coach Dave Woodall's Bass diamond nine, will run the century and in one of the relay races for Phil Alexander's Blue Wave.

The Thursday-Friday event, which will start at 4 p. m. each day, will determine qualifiers in 14 events for the Southern Relays the following Friday and Saturday. First three finishers in each event will qualify for the Birmingham affair, which will draw top performers from high schools all over the Southeast.

Finals will be run off in as many events as possible Thursday, the pole vault, high jump, distance relay and medley relay being events certain to be completed. With 13 city schools competing, however, entries in many events, the dashes in particular, will be so heavy that finals will not be upcoming until Friday.

Coach Perrin Walker's Grady Grey Knights, expected to be one of the stronger teams again this year, will be without most of the boys who won the 880 and mile relays at Birmingham a year ago.

Northside, with such standouts as Lester Simerville, Dwight Horton and hurdle ace Tommy Beutell still in school, also figures to give one of the strongest team efforts this outing. Paul Knox will team with that triumvirate to make the Tigers potent in the relay races. Beutell stacks up as one of the state's front-line hurdlers.

Murphy's Gene Purcell, the football nifty, has done more than 11 feet in the pole vault and seems to be the class of the field in his specialty. Ralph Bishop, a transfer student from New York, and Big Bill Salter make O'Keefe a threat in weight events.

Those are the big ones of sure near-championship caliber, and several sleepers are certain to emerge from the ranks as the season wears on.

Georgia Honors Baseball Players Of Past Seasons

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, March 25—The University of Georgia will honor its baseball lettermen of the past here April 23, Athletic Director Wallace Butts announced Wednesday.

They will gather at Coach Butts' home for a barbecue at 12 o'clock noon and then assemble at the baseball field to be presented in a special ceremony prior to the Georgia-Florida game at 3:30.

Georgia has fielded a baseball team every year since 1886.

Attorney Bids to Drop Rupp Suit

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 25. (AP)—Attorney J. A. Edge filed a motion in Federal Court here Wednesday for dismissal of a $573,257.79 damage suit against University of Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp and gamblers Frank Costello and Ed Curd.

Edge moved to drop the suit at the order of Mrs. Lucille Chumbley Bradberry, of Athens, Ga., who was listed as the plaintiff although she has denied any knowledge of the action.

Judge H. Church Ford set April 15 for a hearing on the motion to dismiss the suit, and on the same day will hear a motion filed by Rupp's attorney to strike the basketball coach's name from the action.

The suit, filed by Edge last March 20, sought to recover triple damages for money which Mrs. Bradberry's brother, George Chumbley, allegedly lost to Curd. It accused Rupp of entering into a conspiracy with Curd, a former Lexington gambler, and Costello, reputed rackets boss.

William Townsend, Rupp's attorney, said he would insist that the suit be dismissed, not on Edge's motion, but upon "our motion that it is a sham and false throughout."

Rupp said Tuesday night that Townsend would seek Federal Court disciplinary action against Edge, and would bring disbarment proceedings against him.

Knickerbockers Defeat Celtics

NEW YORK, March 25 (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers, after a shaky start, pulled ahead in the third quarter and stayed there all the way to defeat the Boston Celtics, 95-91, in the opener of the best-of-five eastern division NBA playoffs at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

The Knicks managed to hold the rest of the Boston team, but, as usual, bouncing Bob Cousy put on a big show for the losers before a crowd of 9,243. He scored 28 points, which is just about his average against the Knicks.

And this was despite the fact that coach Joe Lapchick assigned three different operatives to guard him. First Al McGuire tried it with little success, then came brother Dick, and finally Ernie Vandeweghe. Of the three, Vandeweghe was the most effective.

Atom Engineer Confined During Illness for Security

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25—The story of how a young atomic engineer, carrying classified information in his head, was kept in Letterman Army Hospital for "security reasons" during a long illness was revealed today some 48 hours after his death.

Associated Press Wirephoto

OILMAN DIES—NEW YORK, March 25—James A. Moffett, 66, former federal housing chief and high executive in Standard Oil Companies of California and New Jersey, died today.

William C. Twitchell, project engineer in charge of the mechanical equipment of the University of California's radiation laboratory, was hospitalized October 24 for "neurological observation" and died of "diffuse malignancy," according to Army doctors.

The 36-year-old engineer, who held a master's degree in chemistry although he had not actually worked as an atomic chemist at the Berkeley institution, was moved to Letterman Hospital under an arrangement made between the Atomic Energy Commission and the Army's surgeon general.

"He was put there for security reasons so that we wouldn't have people wandering around overhearing anything he might say in periods of delirium," said Harold Fidler, deputy manager of the San Francisco operations office of the AEC.

Fidler denied reports that Twitchell had been kept under armed during his hospitalization but said nurses had attended him 24 hours a day.

It was explained that the Army hospital had been chosen because it could provide attendants specially screened for security purposes to minister to the engineer. Twitchell had done "some talking" while in a semi-conscious condition after his admittance to the hospital, a spokesman said.

Atomic energy officials here said this was the only case in the area in which steps of this kind had been taken during an atomic scientist's illness.

Army physicians had not been able to determine whether Twitchell's illness had anything to do with exposure to radio-activity.

Twitchell had been a member of the radiation laboratory's staff since 1940, when he took his master's degree in chemistry at the University of California following his graduation two years earlier from Rollins College.

Video Color Ban Gone; Row Hinted

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—The last remaining restrictions on production of color television sets would be removed under a decision reported to have been made today.

But it's still likely to be two years or more before your living room set shows rainbow hues. That was the gist of testimony which Dr. Frank Stanton, president of Columbia Broadcasting System, gave today before the House Commerce Committee.

BAN CAME

But shortly after that approval was given, the National Production Authority issued its 1951 ban on building of color sets, to conserve materials and technical manpower for defense work.

Informed persons said today that NPA's Order Clearance Committee has approved final cancellation of that ban, and it may be signed within 48 hours by H. B. McCoy, acting NPA chief.

Stanton told the committee his firm has no plans, under present circumstances, to go ahead with color broadcasts or the production of color sets.

23 MILLION SETS

He pointed out there are 23 million TV sets now in operation but they couldn't receive color broadcasts under the CBS method.

And since the NPA order against color equipment, he said, the situation has been "becalmed." He emphasized that the CBS system is not "dead."

Now Radio Corporation of America has indicated it will be ready by July or August to demonstrate to the FCC a new system for color transmission. The RCA method would permit present sets to receive in black-and-white the same programs that would be broadcast in color.

"UNREALISTIC"

Under the circumstances, Stanton testified, it would be "wholly unrealistic" for CBS to expect either manufacturers or buyers to become interested in a method which might be displaced within a short time.

He said he doesn't know what stand CBS will take on the RCA proposal because he doesn't know enough about it.

Then he added:

"But this much we do know with complete certainty. We are for any color system which works well, which is practical, and the cost of which is reasonable."

Trucker's Help To Autoist Costs Heavy Cargo

INDIANAPOLIS, March 25. (AP)—E. J. McDowell of Indianapolis stopped his tractor-trailer loaded with building stone packed in excelsior to pull a passenger car out of a ditch.

He handed the motorist a flare to wave as a warning to other drivers.

Bedroom-Crash Of Car Brings Driver $500 Fine

The motorist whose midnight ride stopped short in a family bedroom was fined $500 Wednesday.

Criminal Court Judge Charles G. Bruce suspended a 12-month sentence and fined Louis F. Nicholson, 30, of 1338 Piedmont Ave., N. E.

His car crashed into the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cline, 539 East Wesley Rd., N. E. They were uninjured.

Con Men, Forgers Loom in Soviet

MOSCOW, March 25 (AP)—A regional prosecutor in the Leningrad area has blamed reported forgeries and thefts involving many thousands of rubles on complacency and gullibility of Soviet officials.

The Moscow press quoted the prosecutor, I. Tsypin, as saying a man named Tambovsky had worked his way into the confidence of two officials of a consumer cooperative and stolen more than 500,000 rubles through the use of forged documents.

(There is no normal exchange between the ruble and the dollar. The Soviet government has given the ruble an arbitrary value of 25 cents.)

Tsypin said also that a group of men had swindled the Leningrad pig slaughter trust for three years by selling state-owned fodder on the side. A man identified only as Gurewich, in collaboration with others, stole 60,000 rubles from another Leningrad trust, the prosecutor said.

A woman named Bekman, who had already served five years' imprisonment for embezzling, was given another job on her release and soon had stolen 3,000 rubles from a sales organization, the prosecutor said.

"This practice shows that many executives and officials are violating the principles of selection of personnel for political and practical qualities," Tsypin said, "and are allowing their organizations to be cluttered up with people who do not inspire confidence. . . ."

Books of 75 Reds Said In Libraries

Budenz Blames Secret Promoter

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Former Communist Louis Budenz testified today books by at least 75 Communists are in State Department libraries overseas and a "concealed Communist" must have advised putting them there.

"This," Budenz said, "is a method of breeding communism throughout the world."

Now a Fordham University professor, Budenz was a leading figure in the Communist party from 1935 to 1945. He appeared before the Senate investigation subcommittee, which is trying to find out how books by Communists got onto the shelves of libraries at some 150 information centers the State Department operates around the globe. The department has announced such books are being withdrawn.

Associated Press Wirephoto

TELLS OF RED BOOKS
Louis Budenz

SIX BOOKS

The subcommittee staff ticked off titles of six books by Lawrence K. Rosinger it said are in some 39 libraries. Rosinger took the witness stand, acknowledged authorship of the books, insisted he is a good American, but refused to say whether he ever was a Communist on the grounds the answer might incriminate him.

Budenz said he had heard of Rosinger frequently and had definite information that Rosinger was a party member.

Another author, James S. Allen, who refused to tell yesterday whether he ever was a Red, likewise was identified as one by Budenz.

PERJURY ACTION

Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) said he was inclined to submit Allen's testimony to the Justice Department for perjury action. He said Allen had denied knowing Moscow exercised control over the party.

Budenz described that Allen statement as "utterly false."

"The audacity of Mr. Allen in this respect," he said, "is almost laughable."

Budenz said Allen had served as international representative of the party in the Philippines and knew from personal experience that orders came from Moscow. Not only was Allen a party member, he said, but he also was an "important functionary" who had been foreign editor of the Daily Worker.

TRUE PICTURE

According to a State Department official, Subcommittee Atty. Roy Cohn said, the purpose of the overseas libraries is to provide a true picture of the American way of life and "to advance the idea of America in the struggles against communism."

Certainly books by Communists wouldn't serve that purpose, Budenz said. Could he think of any reason for buying the books of men like Earl Browder and William Z. Foster, the former and present heads of the Communist party?

"No," Budenz replied, "this is totally unknown to me, unless the advice of some concealed Communist was at work. Certainly someone along the line must have been a concealed Communist to give such advice."

Red Hunt In N. Y. Hits 81 Teachers

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON, March 25 (AP)—An educator reported today 81 teachers have been separated from New York City's public school system in a campaign to oust Communists, and about 180 others are under investigation.

William Jansen, New York City superintendent of schools, gave the figures to the Senate's internal security subcommittee, which is studying Red influence on American education.

The number of Communists among New York's 37,000 teachers is small, Jansen said, but they "exert an influence far beyond their number."

Since 1950, he reported, 81 have resigned, retired or been removed while under investigation or after charges of Communist affiliations had been brought against them. And "we are by no means satisfied that we have cleared up the situation," Jansen said.

The superintendent said the problem of communism is not confined to New York City, and that he had found school authorities across the nation increasingly concerned about Red infiltrations.

He endorsed warmly the subcommittee's work, declaring the Communists were talking nonsense when they denounced it as an assault on academic freedom. If anything, Jansen said, the probe has helped academic freedom.

Quarantine For N. DeKalb Rabies Scare

Seven children, bitten by a puppy believed to be rabid, were inoculated Wednesday as health officials moved to head off a possible rabies outbreak in north DeKalb County.

The children, listed by DeKalb County Health Engineer L. W. deJarnette as Larry, Joyce and Loretta Fowler and Martha, Robert, Ray and Jimmy Graham, were bitten by a collie puppy while they were playing in the yard of a LaVista Road residence.

The dog was impounded for tests, deJarnette said. He said a cow, belonging to residents of the same general area, died Tuesday of rabies.

The health official said a quarantine has been imposed on LaVista Road and several other north DeKalb sections requiring that dogs be locked up or kept on leash at all times.

Indo Delegate Urges Ike, Malenkov Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 25 (AP)—Undeterred by newly-intensified Soviet propaganda attacks on the U. S., Indonesia's chief delegate said today he still thought it would be a good idea for the U. N. to work for a meeting between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Malenkov.

Fla. Terror List Called Incredible

Incidents Traced Back to 1943

MIAMI, Fla., March 25 (AP)—A federal grand jury investigating racial violence and the Ku Klux Klan in Florida today brought in a report of what it called a "catalog of terror that seems incredible."

The partial report was signed by L. E. Broome and Emroy S. Akerman, Washington, special assistants to the attorney general, who have been directing the probe since last Oct. 6.

DETAIL ACTS

After detailing acts of violence for which the grand jury said the Ku Klux Klan was responsible, the report said:

"It is founded on the worst instincts of mankind. At its best, it is intolerant and bigoted. At its worst it is sadistic and brutal."

Most of the terroristic outrages listed in the report occurred in Central Florida where, the jury commented, "such things have been going on for years." The remainder occurred in Greater Miami.

Like the Carver Village bombings in Miami and the bomb murders of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Moore, at Mims, Fla., some of these incidents, the jury said, "are already bywords. Others are brought to light for the first time." Some of the incidents dated back to 1943.

ASK LAW

The jury recommended to the State Legislature that a law be enacted "with comprehensive requirements and with real teeth" to control the use of dynamite. This explosive was used in Carver Village, Mims and Greater Miami synagogue bombings.

The jury said that two years before the Moore murders on Christmas night, 1951, a floor plan to the Moore house was exhibited at a meeting of a Central Florida klavern. It added that newspaper clippings of Moore's activities were read at klavern meetings and that mention of him was made on other occasions and in other places.

Moore, a Negro, was state coordinator for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at the time that he and his wife were killed in an explosion that wrecked their home at Mims, Fla.

3 Are Killed In Maryland B-25 Crash

BALTIMORE, March 25—(AP)—An Air Force two-engine B-25 crashed near Baltimore's Friendship Airport 10 miles south of here tonight and police said three men were killed.

The plane came in in a wide arc, shearing off the tops of trees for about 150 yards and then plunged to the ground near a girl's school. The driver of a moving automobile on a nearby road said a portion of the plane wreckage struck his car.

Police and volunteer fire departments rushed to the scene and police said one body was recovered immediately and that two others were pinned in the wreckage.

Benson Threatening Wheat, Cotton Curbs

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, March 25—A "strong possibility" that acreage allotments will be proclaimed for the 1954 wheat and cotton crops was stressed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson today in a hearing of the Senate agriculture and forestry committee.

The secretary has until July 1 to make a final announcement on wheat and Aug. 1 for an announcement on cotton. He discussed, however, with Senator Anderson (Dem., N. Y.) former secretary of agriculture, the advisability of asking funds now for an acreage history survey in the event the proclamation should be made.

Under the Agriculture Act of 1949 the secretary must, except in cases of emergency, proclaim acreage allotments if the commodity supply for the coming year is predicted to exceed expected disappearances by defined percentages.

In the case of cotton, for instance, if the predicted crop combined with supplies on hand plus the relatively minor imports exceed by 30 per cent the expected disappearances for the coming year, the proclamation in mandatory.

When the proclamation is made, planters, large and small, vote whether there will be allotments. If two-thirds voting do not vote for the allotments, the proclamation is invalidated. In the event of a negative vote, however, price supports for the commodity are automatically suspended. In all previous voting the planters have sustained the proclamation.

Secretary Benson said in his report to the committee that as of March 23 the Commodity Credit Corporation had more than $1,000,000,000 worth of agricultural products acquired under price supports. This included 110,000,000 bushels of wheat and 259,000,000 bushels of corn. In addition, the secretary said the CCC has under loan about 200,000,000 bushels of corn, 400,000,000 bushels of wheat and about 2,000,000 bales of cotton, all of which the department can expect to acquire.

1,500-MPH Plane Seen For USAF

Production Due In 'Few Years'

By CHARLES CORDDRY

WASHINGTON, March 25—(AP)—The Air Force plans production within a few years of a 1,500-mile-an-hour pilotless "fighter plane" designed to track down and crash into attacking enemy bombers, it was learned today.

The automatically-operated aircraft—or guided missile—is the Boeing XF-99 Bomarc. It is expected eventually to play an important role in protecting the nation against possible enemy air attack.

OFFICIAL DRAWING

This was disclosed by informed sources as the authoritative trade magazine, "American Aviation," published on the cover of its current issue what it called "the first official Air Force drawing" of the Bomarc.

The Air Force refused comment on the picture but its publication was known to have caused some consternation among top officials.

The Bomarc will be produced by the Boeing Airplane Co. of Seattle, Wash. The firm is setting up a special autonomous division to manufacture the pilotless craft which carries its destructive charge in its nose. Chief Engineer Lysle A. Wood will head the division.

The Bomarc will be launched from the ground. It was understood it will be powered by two ramjet engines with an auxiliary rocket giving it enough power to double the speed of sound.

MORE POWERFUL

Ramjets, much simpler and more powerful than the turbojets of today's fighter planes, are not expected to be used for speeds below that of sound. The auxiliary rocket will give the Bomarc an extra burst of power to penetrate the so-called sonic barrier.

Another and more advanced air defense missile is the XF-98 Falcon being built by Hughes Aircraft Co. The Falcon is a pilotless fighter designed to be carried by such piloted interceptors as the Northrop F-89 Scorpion and the Consolidated Vultee F-102.

Danish King Rules Cousin Off Road After Prince Drinks and Drives

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 25—(AP)—King Frederik IX has forbidden his cousin, the father-in-law of Romania's ex-King Mihai I, to drive an automobile in Denmark for a year, police disclosed today.

The cousin, Prince Rene of Bourbon-Parma, recently was halted by irate fellow-motorists for driving while intoxicated, Deputy Police Commissioner Erik Groes-Petersen said. The deputy commissioner added that the 58-year-old prince, a French citizen, was handed over to police, who found him to be intoxicated.

The prince was released immediately, since a member of the royal family may not be brought into court, Groes-Petersen said.

Key Liquor Witness 'Vanishes'

Constitution State News Service

McRAE, March 25—State and local officers today were searching for the defendant in a Wilcox County liquor case and a Negro man, identified as the key prosecution witness, who were said to have "vanished completely."

Virgil Walker, state revenue agent at McRae, said the defendant, Edgar Burch, a resident of the Jacksonville community in Telfair County, was arrested in Wilcox County Feb. 20 on charges of transporting illegal liquor.

Burch's automobile, in which the Negro, Claude Hudson, also a resident of the Jacksonville community, was a passenger, contained 21 cases of liquor bearing counterfeit tax stamps, Walker said.

Burch was indicted by the Wilcox County Grand Jury Feb. 23 and later released under $1,500 bond. Walker related. He said Hudson was placed under $750 bond as a material witness.

Burch and Hudson failed to appear for trial March 7 in Wilcox Superior Court, Walker said, and Judge Wendell Horne ordereed Burch's bond forfeited.

Later officers were told that Hudson was forced into an automobile by three white men the night of March 14 while attending a barbecue.

Investigating officers later discovered bloodstains a short distance from where the alleged abduction took place. Maj. Delmar Jones, chief of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, in Atlanta said. Jones said the stains were confirmed as being human blood by the State Crime Laboratory.

Burch is being sought on a warrant charging kidnaping as well as a bench warrant issued by Judge Horne in the liquor case, Walker said. He added two residents of the Jacksonville community, identified as Eearl Bland and Jesse Smith, were arrested in connection with the case and placed under $1,000 bond each.

Teachers Must Sell, Cutts Banquet Told

By JOE RICKENBAKER
Constitution Staff Writer

GREENVILLE, March 25—School teachers must sell the people of Georgia on the needs of their children if they wish to see education in the state continue to advance, an educational leader declared here tonight.

Jim Peters, vice-chairman of the state board of education, was principal speaker at a banquet honoring Harvey Cutts, newly elected president of the Georgia Education Association.

Peters told the approximately 150 friends and neighbors of Cutts that in 10 years it will cost the state $60,000,000 yearly more than they are paying now for education in Georgia without allowing for advancement.

Peters recommended an allocation of funds for education be set up in the state. He added that education is competing with 57 other programs for funds from the general budget.

He told the school teachers that they were the ones to bring the situation to the people and to the state government.

E. C. Mitchell Jr., Meriweather County school superintendent, presented a gavel to Cutts in behalf of the local unit of the GEA to highlight the program.

Peters went on to say in his talk that the best way to increase the number of schoolteachers in Georgia is to train them here. To keep them here the profession must be more attractive.

"If the people are given the opportunity they will finance education in Georgia and soon Georgia will have the finest education system in the country," Peters said.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, called Cutts, who is principal of the Greenville High School, a real educational leader and a man of truth and integrity.

Others participating in the celebration were Dr. Claude Purcell, State Department of Education; J. Harold Saxon, executive secretary of the GEA, and other state educational leaders.

Doctor Draft

WASHINGTON, March 25—(INS)—The Defense department asked Congress today for a two-year extension of the "doctor's draft" and said the military need for professional men will nearly double in the 24-month period.

Dedication To God Vital, Youth Told

God can use the "detours and difficulties" even in a world where life seems to deal from the bottom of the deck, the Rev. Paul Worley told Methodist youth here Wednesday night.

The Rev. Mr. Worley, pastor of the Munsey Memorial Church of Johnson, Tenn., is conducting four services here this week at Wesley Memorial Church in the first city-wide Methodist Youth revival in the city's history.

Wednesday night's sermon appealed to young people to dedicate their "time and talent" to God.

The services which began Tuesday will continue through Friday beginning each night at 7:30.

Credit Man Gets 2 Yrs. as Embezzler

A former Mather Bros. Furniture Co. official was sentenced Wednesday to two years in prison after conviction on a charge of embezzling $12,171.39 from the store.

Caroll T. Robinson Jr., former collection manager, pleaded guilty before Superior Judge Virlyn B. Moore.

Mather officials said he collected credit payments from customers but did not record the payments in the store's books.

Robinson, who appeared in court with his wife, first was confronted with the shortages after discrepancies appeared in bank statements.

"If you behave yourself," Judge Moore said, "you ought to get out (of prison) in eight or ten months."

PSC Study Of Dexter Phones Set

The Georgia Public Service Commission took under advisement Wednesday an application by J. M. Rowland for authority to operate a telephone exchange at Dexter in Laurens County.

Rowland's application was opposed at a public hearing by another group of Laurens Countians who want to include the Dexter exchange in a rural cooperative system to serve Cadwell, Chester, Rentz and Dexter.

Seeking a certificate of transfer, Rowland told the commission he and a partner in Pontiac, Mich., have an option to buy the Detxer exchange from H. W. Dozier.

Mayor Gene Gilbert, Loomis Taylor and Gordon Lord, all of Dexter, opposed Rowland's application on behalf of the Progressive Rural Telephone Cooperative. They were joined by Robert Williams, coordinator for the Rural Electrification Administration, and Paul J. Jones Jr. of the Oconee Electric Membership Corporation.

New Agency To Combine Atlanta Relief Activities

By ALBERT RILEY

Organization of the Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services was perfected Wednesday to assume functions formerly performed by the Greater Atlanta Community Chest and the Community Planning Council.

In past years the Community Chest has raised funds for 34 Red Feather agencies and the Planning Council served as a clearing house for health and welfare planning.

At the first meeting of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services, President Edward D. Smith said more than 90 health, welfare and other agencies will be members of the new organization designed to bring Community Chest fund-raising and health and welfare planning under one directorate.

FUND RAISING

A Community Chest division of the MACS will henceforth handle fund-raising for the Red Feather agencies, Smith said, and will be headed by Frank M. Ridley as chairman, and a steering board composed of Harrison Jones, A. L. Feldman, Mrs. Allen Lockerman, Ivan Allen Jr., Philip H. Alston Jr., Jack F. Glenn, Carroll Payne Jones, Malon Courts and Edgar Forio.

A planning division will assume the functions of the old community planning council and will be divided into three sections: family and child care, health, group work. This division will be directed by a steering board with Robert L. Foreman as chairman.

Other members of this board are: Frank Maier, Fred Storey, Dr. C. C. Aven, Dr. Eustace Allen, Louis Montag, Charles Mathias, Philip Shulhafer, Mary Bruce Roberts, Mrs. W. E. Letts, Warren Cochrane, Mrs. Holcombe Green, J. C. Shelor, Judge W. W. Woolfolk and J. D. Harris.

A budget department for the new organization will be headed by Robert F. Whitaker and 40 committeemen, with Dr. J. R. McCain, Hughes Spalding Jr., Edwin L. Sterne, Herbert Elsas and George S. Craft as subcommittee chairmen.

VISITS SET

This committee will begin visits to Red Feather agencies next month, hold hearings in June and allocate funds to member agencies. Gordon Jones will serve the entire organization as treasurer.

A public relations department was established to conduct educational and promotional programs and will be headed by Frank Malone and a committee including Dr. Allen D. Albert, James Cobb, J. C. Haynes, Hixon Kinsella, C. K. Liller and J. S. Roberts.

President Smith and the directors of the new organization appointed J. C. Malone and J. J. McDonough as representatives on the city's fund appeals review board.

The directors announced they would pursue an "open door" policy whereby other fund-raising agencies may come into the Community Services drives if they desire.

The board also announced that the dormant Citizens Crime Prevention Commission, a Red Feather agency, will be abolished and its functions assumed by other agencies of the new organization.

Fatal Wreck Suits Seek Half-Million

Fulton Superior Court has been asked to award $570,000 in damages in five lawsuits growing out of a March 16 highway wreck that killed four persons and injured another.

The victims were passengers in a car that was wrecked and burned on U. S. 341 at the Big Indian Creek bridge in Houston County.

The suits contend the car was wrecked by a collision of two trucks.

Motor Convoy, Inc., and driver, C. H. Landrum, of Fulton County; Associated Petroleum Carriers, Inc., Gainesville, and Reginald Trice, Inc., Bibb County.

The plaintiffs and amounts sought are:

Douglas B. Bozeman and Judy, his daughter, $125,000, for the death of Mrs. Bozeman; Claxton Jones, $100,000, for his own injuries; Mrs. George E. Davis, $135,000, for the death of her husband; Mrs. Lilla B. Smith, $110,000, for the death of her son, Oliver C. Smith; Mrs. Robert Reno Fordham, $100,000, for the death of her husband.

All the persons who died were employed at Warner Robins AFB.

Coastal Guns Would Repel, Albania Says

MOSCOW, March 25 (AP)—The leader of Albania's Communists has vowed that the "strongly fortified" coast of the Communist-ruled country would repel any invader.

His statement was in a message to the Soviet Union printed in Pravda here today.

There have been recurrent reports from Albania that the country is seething and ripe for revolt against the dictatorial Communist regime. Albania has been isolated geographically from the Soviet-dominated satellite world ever since 1948 when the Communist party of Tito's Yugoslavia defected and was thrown out of the Cominform.

The message was signed by Enver Hoxha, secretary general of the Albanian Communist party Central Committee. It pledged Albania anew to allegiance to the USSR.

"The Soviet Union and the Communist party will always be the greatest source of light on the path to a happy future," the long message said. "Thus, the Albanian people have vowed to Comrade Stalin. And there is no force in the world which could compel the Albanian people to violate this vow given to its friend."

Then the message added that "the Albanian coast is not like it once was, and anyone trying to land there now would bump his head, for it is strongly fortified."

6 Would Take New P. O. Test

At least six of the 20 men who were certified as eligible to become postmaster of Atlanta indicated Wednesday night they would resubmit their names if the Republican administration called a new examination for the postmastership.

The six are George E. Meaders, Leo M. Moulson, James V. Dorsey, Lloyd R. Eady, Tate Anderson and Eugene V. Manning. Anderson and Manning are both Republicans with long service in the Post Office department.

State Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huiet and five other former applicants said they would not consider applying again. One was undecided. Seven could not be reached for comment.

Huiet said he was well satisfied with his present post and had only taken the postmastership examination because he had been urged to do so by friends.

Meanwhile, Washington officials indicated that new examinations will be called soon for some 1,700 postmasterships in the nation for which competitive exams were held within the past 12 months. It was speculated that the step is planned to give Republicans a crack at first, second and third-class postmasterships which were only recently put on Civil Service status.

East Point and 20 other Georgia postmasterships also are probably included in the 1,700, Civil Service Regional Director O. E. Myers said. Myers said a list of eligibles for the East Point postmastership was submitted to Washington last year. Acting Postmaster R. N. Berry is now in charge of the East Point office.

College Park also has an acting postmaster, H. R. Harris.

McCarthy, Taft Clash On Bohlen

GOP Fight Delays Okay to Friday

broke out over the question of whether former Ambassador Hugh Gibson, as a member of the senior State department board, concurred in Bohlen's nomination. Dirksen said Gibson told him he never had been consulted on the matter.

Dulles had told the Senate foreign relations committee that Gibson, Norman Armour and former Undersecretary of State Joseph C. Grew "unanimously concurred that Mr. Bohlen was uniquely qualified."

During the debate, Knowland produced on the Senate floor a letter from Dulles bearing signatures of the three. The senator said it backed up the secretary's statement.

"I wouldn't misrepresent the facts," Knokland shouted. "As chairman of the Republican policy committee I resent it."

After further prodding by McCarthy, Knowland said Bohlen's nomination had been sent the Senate over the signature of Mr. Eisenhower. He said he did not think it necessary to get handwriting expert to prove that it actually was "the signature of Dwight Eisenhower."

"If we have so lost confidence in the men who are in high places in our country, then God help our country," he said.

McCarthy, also speaking with great feeling, told Knowland that when the "life and death" of the natior. "hangs in balance" he did not intend to "force" a vote on the nomination of a man "who in 26 years never raised his voice against communism."

The packed galleries burst into applause for McCarthy and Knowland. They were shushed by Senator Saltonstall (Rep., Mass.), the presiding officer.

After the tumult subsided, Taft permitted the Senate to adjourn without pushing for a vote. He said his action had nothing to do with McCarthy's request and noted that Friday was the next regular meeting day for the Senate.

Taft could have held the Senate in session into the night to force a vote. However, he and Mrs. Taft were holding an early evening tea for Mrs. Eisenhower, which the President also was scheduled to attend.

Taft has said that he would not have appointed Bohlen to the Moscow post under present circumstances but is supporting him because he thinks the diplomat is well-qualified for the job.

U. S. Eager for Honest Meeting, Lodge Tells Soviet

"We long for the day of honest negotiations which my government asked for in this committee last week. We will meet the Soviet Union halfway at any time."

The United States delegate asked how long the Soviet Union would continue its "vast and systemized oppression," and said he was not looking for a "hasty answer." He asked other questions: When would the Communists free William A. Oatis, American newspaperman imprisoned by the Czechs; what fate was in store for the "hundred-odd" Americans now in Communist China?

Lodge said that the Soviet philosophy could not permit individuals to "choose freedom," and he charged that about 1,234,000 Germans, Japanese, Italians and Greeks were still in Soviet hands. And for the first time in a United Nations committee meeting, the U. S. representative gave the U. S. delegation's endorsement to the findings of a House of Representatives committee that the Russians, and not the Germans, were guilty of the massacre of 4,000 Polish officers in Katyn Forest, near Smolensk, during World War II.

Repeatedly, Lodge stressed the contention that the Soviet Union had its own policies to blame for the West's determination to rearm. After World War II, said the former Republican senator from Massachusetts, the United States trusted its Soviet ally and started disarmament. He called that confidence in the Soviet Union a "major miscalculation" on the part of American authorities, apparently a dig at the Truman administration.

Lodge's committee-room neighbor, Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain, had some barbed phrases of his own to throw at the Soviet bloc. The Soviet satellites, he said, live in a "permanent state of frenzied apprehension," because despite their "numbers and brutality" the secret police cannot cow the workers and peasants into total submission.

Hate and fear, said Jebb, dominate the counsels of the Soviet world, and even if the "final absurdity" of World War III were to be avoided, the future "remains austere, dark and doubtful." He went on:

"So far as we in the free world are concerned we can only remain strong, resolute and calm. It is not for us to say when the cold war now raging in this great Assembly will diminish in intensity. It is for the other side to make it clear by their deeds that the climate is changing."

The Western delegates spoke in the 60-nation Political and Security Committee of the General Assembly, which neared the end of debate today on a Czechoslovak complaint that the United States was guilty of aggression and interference in the internal affairs of the Soviet bloc.

Army School Segregation Ordered Out

The American Veterans Committee said the President "is to be commended."

Hagerty's announcement today made no mention of Army children who attend segregated schools outside military posts in the South. Defense sources said most Army children in the South attend such schools. They added federal funds are used to help pay the costs of educating those children.

Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.), complained Jan. 14 of segregated state-directed schools on Army posts in the South. He asked the U. S. Office of Education why it permitted them. The education office said it was barred by law from interfering with state-run schools on Army posts.

The Army said schools on six Army posts, with an enrollment of about 6,100 students, are maintained entirely by federal funds—at West Point, N. Y.; Fort Campbell, Ky.; Fort Knox, Ky.; Fort Benning, Ga.; Fort Bragg, N. C., and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The White House said segregation has been eliminated in all these except at Fort Benning.

LOST BOY

He marched up to Sgt. Charlie Blackwell in the general office, pointed to a missing tooth and said:

"A policeman knocked it out." He thought for a moment and amended the statement with: "A policeman's dog knocked it out."

Sam's father, Sgt. S. L. Brock, who already had reported the child missing, had still another explanation for the missing tooth when he arrived at headquarters to pick up Sam.

"You know you fell off a car fender and knocked that tooth out," he said.

Montreal's Dr. Gore Accepts Call to Epiphany Church

Dr. Norman Gore, assistant rector of St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Montreal, Canada, has accepted a call to become rector of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, it was announced by R. B. Belser, senior warden of the church.

The previous rector, the Rev. Waddell F. Robey, resigned in January to become co-rector of St. Phillip's Church, Charleston, S. C.

Dr. Norman Gore

Dr. Gore was born in Poland and educated in Great Britain. He has served the Montreal church since his ordination to the priesthood in 1948. He is 42.

He is at present lecturer in the humanities at Sir George Williams College, and director of the Inter-Faith Department of the Montreal diocese. He is founder of the New Canadian School for Boys.

Because of previous commitments Dr. Gore will be unable to assume his duties at Epiphany until some time in May.

Choral Service At Temple Friday

The 50-voice Choral of Guild of Atlanta, directed by Haskell Boyter, will present "Sacred Service" by Ernest Bloch, at The Temple at 8 p. m. Friday. Rabbi Jacob Rothschild said the special service was planned in observance of Jewish Music Month.

Road Toll Feared Going Above '52's Record 1,004

Motor vehicle crashes in Georgia killed 1,004 persons during 1952—the bloodiest year on record—and present prospects indicate an even higher death rate for 1953, the State Patrol said Wednesday.

During the 30 days following the close of the General Assembly, the state's death rate jumped to 2.3 persons per day, as compared with 1.7 persons a day for the first 53 days of the year, Lt. R. V. Richards of the patrol's accident reporting division revealed.

Although the total deaths so far this year total 157—37 less than the fatalities for the same period last year—Lieutenant Richards indicated that the accelerating death rate would send the toll past last year's record within a few months.

Delayed accident reports, unreported deaths discovered through records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics and recent deaths of persons injured in accidents during 1952 have added 50 persons to the total for last year, Richards said.

In Georgia, Sunday and Saturday are the most dangerous days for highway travel. Richards said during the first two months of this year, 28 persons were killed on Sundays, 23 on Saturdays, 15 on Mondays, 12 on Fridays, nine on Tuesdays, seven on Wednesdays and six on Thursdays.

Cycle Patrolman Qualifies for Ride In Ambulance He Called for Buddy

The ambulance motorcycle patrolman Robert A. Harris summoned for his injured partner carried him to the hospital instead.

Ptl. Malcolm J. MacFaden was hurt when his motorcycle struck a utility pole and tossed him into the air.

Dean Colwell Co-Authors Book

Dr. Ernest C. Colwell, dean of faculties at Emory University is coauthor of a book on Saint John which will be published by Harper's in the fall.

The book, titled "The Gospel of the Spirit," is an interpretation of messages in the fourth book of the New Testament. Dr. Eric Titus, New Testament professor at the University of Southern California, collaborated with Dr. Colwell.

Drivers to Receive Miniature Tags

The "tags," bearing the motorist license number and attachable to keys, were responsible for locating 100,000 sets of lost car keys last year, the DAV reported.

DOG-LOVING CAB DRIVER SAVED PEE WEE

Terrier Victim of Auto Saved by Taxi Driver

A 41-year-old Atlanta taxicab driver who says he "loves dogs," early Wednesday picked up a bruised and bloody wire-haired terrier from the street where it had been hit by a car, took it to a veterinarian and eventually helped return the animal to its owners.

Hopkins said the terrier, named "Pee Wee," which belongs to his wife, Mrs. Bessie Hopkins, and son, Camp, had dug under a back yard fence and ran off, losing his collar and identification tags in the process, and galloped about 200 yards up the street before being struck by a car.

The cab driver, L. F. Bassett of 485 Angier Ave., N. E., Apt. 9, said he didn't see how anyone who loves dogs could have left the animal lying helpless to be killed by another passing automobile.

Bassett, a driver for Yellow Cab Co. for nearly 18 years, said he spotted the dog lying in the street near Hope Drive and Sylvan Road, S. W., early Wednesday about 12:45 a. m. as he headed back to town to check up.

Bassett said he picked "Pee Wee" up, placed him in the trunk of the cab and searched 30 minutes for a veterinarian before Grady Hospital attendants directed him to Dr. E. Ray Griner at 1039 Marietta St., N. W.

Dr. Griner, incidentally, had treated the animal two years earlier for distemper. The veterinarian treated the terrier, and Bassett left the animal with him for the night.

Searching through the morning Constitution, Bassett recognized the dog's description in a want-ad Hopkins inserted as he sought to locate the dog. Later Wednesday Hopkins retrieved "Pee Wee," bruised, one tooth missing and a little shaky, but not seriously hurt.

Small Town Held Haven In A-Blast

The "most popular misconception" about atomic bomb blasts is that "people in small towns wouldn't be able to help out if larger towns were blasted by an atomic bomb," according to Brig. Gen. Frank Kopf, Georgia deputy director of civil defense.

General Kopf, along with Maj. Gen. Ernest Vandiver, state adjutant general and director of civil defense, and Carlton Morrison, of The Journal-Constitution promotion department, were guests Wednesday night on WSB-TV "Press Gallery."

People in the large cities "would have to have somewhere to go," Kopf pointed out, emphasizing smaller towns would become refugee centers for residents of municipalities blasted by A-bombs.

"If an atomic bomb were dropped over Five Points at midday, there would be tremendous destruction," Gen. Vandiver said. "There would be much to be done in the way of civil defense."

Generals Vandiver and Kopf and Morrison witnessed the March 17 atomic bomb test at Yucca Flat, Nev.

PARADOXICAL HUMAN NATURE

Benson Seeking To Teach-Martin

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson has "the sticky job of creating a new farm policy," but "he'll do all that one man can, in the field allotted to him, to make it secure again," says Harold H. Martin, Constitution columnist, in an article in the March 28 issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

Benson is pictured by Martin as a "220-pound Utah preacher, best-picking champion and farm economist." The secretary "wants his agriculture department to teach and educate, not to dictate," Martin writes.

3 Qualify for Primary; Negro Asks Board Seat

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Three candidates Wednesday qualified for the May 13 city primary.

Meanwhile, B. D. (Buck) Murphy, attorney, declined to defend the City Executive Committee against suits to force election of 18 committee members. Murphy said he could not accept the case because of pressure of other business.

Committee Secretary N. T. Chambers qualified the first Negro entrant in recent history—Dr. Rufus Clement, president of Atlanta University—who announced he will oppose veteran third ward board of education member J. H. Landers. Also qualified were Dr. Charles C. Rife, president of the board, who will run again from the second ward, and Lee Watson, seeking the second aldermanic position from the fifth ward. Rife thus far has no opposition, and Watson will oppose incumbent Jimmy Vickers, and George H. Kasper Junior.

QUALIFIED TALENT

Chambers said qualified legal talent will be employed to defend the executive committee against suits brought by three Negroes, and that the committee expects to be sustained in its decision to forego the scheduled election and hold office as de facto members until Jan. 1, 1958.

Trial of the mandamus suits is set for April 6 in Fulton Superior Court. In the meantime, the committee refuses to accept qualifications for executive committee posts.

A. T. Walden, Miles G. Amos and Roderick B. Harris, Negroes, who were refused qualification, contend the election is mandatory and are asking the courts to order the committee to hold it.

41 QUALIFIED

Qualifications recorded Wednesday pushed the total to 41 with candidates paying $22,600 for the privilege of running in the primary.

In another political development, the Atlanta League of Women Voters called Wednesday for a political campaign "free from appeals to racial or religious prejudice."

The league noted that in 1952 more than 30 state-wide organizations joined in a similar appeal.

The group also announced that in its work for improvement in all branches of city and county governments this year it will concentrate on a study of tax structures and budgetary procedures, an evaluation of the role of citizen boards in government and continued efforts to obtain home rule for Atlanta.

CREATOR OF POODLE CUT DESIGNS DOGWOOD HAIRDO FOR ATLANTA

Hair Designer Michel Adopts Petal Style for Jeanne Varnedoe

New Doggy Coif Has Bark; Not Bite

By AGNES McCARTY

The man responsible for shearing tons of tresses with his poodle hairdo has designed a new canine cut with more bark than bite—it's the "Dogwood Coiffure."

Dapper Michel Kazan, who clipped the locks of Rosalind Russell for her role in the stage hit, "Wonderful Town," says floral motifs are being used so lavishly in spring fashions that coiffures must be co-ordinated.

Petal shapes feature a molded, well-groomed crown with hair swept to the front in a circular movement. Soft, pointed curls frame the face. The cut is reminiscent of the Charleston era but without the pasted-down look popular with flappers.

The Frenchman is convinced short hair is here to stay. The effusive hair designer believes he reformed his most persistent "long hair" when he brought Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski into the shorn fold.

"I cut Mrs. Stokowski's hair a leetle at a time. Now she asks for shorter and shorter style. 'Michel,' she says, 'I leave it all up to you what is best for me.' "

Michel will be at Regenstein's Buckhead beauty salon through Friday of this week.

'Funniest' Hat Is Theme of Guest Luncheon

A prize will be given for the funniest hat worn by a guest at the luncheon to be given at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday by members of the Susannah Wesley class in the Druid Hills Methodist Church dining room.

Mrs. Charles LaFontaine will be in charge of the variety program, which will include among its features a kitchen orchestra.

Proceeds will go to the Wicker Memorial and reservations may be made through Mrs. LaFontaine at ATwood 2660 and Mrs. J. P. Starr at CRescent 1598.

Ida Callaway Gardens in Full Spring Bloom

The Ida Cason Callaway Gardens at Blue Springs Farm, home of Mr. and Mrs. Cason Callaway at Hamilton, will be at the height of their spring beauty for the two weeks beginning Sunday, March 29.

The native azalea trail is now in full bloom, and the holly arboretum trail is at the height of its beauty. There are also myriads of dogwoods and flowering shrubs in bloom.

Panel To Be Led By Paul West

Paul West, superintendent of Fulton County schools, and a panel of other county officials, will address a meeting of East Point Woman's Club at 11 a. m. Friday at the clubhouse.

Other panelists will be Mrs. Jess Lucas, Fulton County PTA president; Louis J. Poetter, psychologist of the Fulton County Juvenile Court; J. R. Grayson of the East Point Parks Department. A Russell High student, Jack Leverett, will also participate in the discussion on "Youth Conservation."

Mrs. T. J. Leverett is planning the program.

Hopkins, Yopp Altar Date Set

Arthur Clarke will give his niece, Miss Mary Ann Hopkins, in marriage when she becomes the bride of Lt. John W. Yopp, U. S. Air Force, at a late afternoon ceremony at St. Philip's Cathedral on Tuesday, April 14. Dean Alfred Hardman will officiate at 5:30 o'clock.

Following the ceremony the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Hawkins Hopkins, will entertain at a reception for the wedding party and the two families at her home at 17 W. Andrews Dr.

MAID OF HONOR

Miss Ellen Adams will be Miss Hopkins' maid of honor and Mrs. Glenville A. Giddings will be matron of honor. Mrs. Harvie Ward and Mrs. John C. Tyler will serve as bridesmaids.

McKee Nunnally will be best man for Lieutenant Yopp, and usher-groomsmen will include James P. Mills, Robert L. Foreman Jr., Thomas E. Schneider Jr., Norman A. Cooledge, Bernard Neal, William Huger Jr., Bruce Woodruff Jr., Lt. P. Dan Gold Jr., USN, and Jack Cram.

Preceding the wedding rehearsal on April 13, Lt. Yopp's parents, Col. and Mrs. Gerald O'Keeffe, and his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. McKee Nunnally, will entertain at dinner at the Nunnally home on Habersham Road.

COCKTAIL PARTY

On Saturday Miss Hopkins and her fiance will share honors with Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Howell at the cocktail party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Julian Carr at their home on Rivers Road. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grady will entertain at the cocktail hour for Miss Elaine Courts, her fiance, Norman A. Cooledge; Miss Hopkins and Lieutenant Yopp.

MARCIA WINN

Let Children Make Gifts For Guests

One of the nicer aspects of the visit of Grandmother or an aunt or uncle when you are small is their luggage. Invariably they say after a smothering hug and varieties of kisses that they have brought you a present which you will get "as soon as I have a chance to unpack my bag."

This is certain groundwork for a fine relationship, as no grandparent of any era has ever needed to be told, but it would be even nicer if the relationship could be reversed.

Why can't children be encouraged to work up an equal excitement over a gift they can make for the incoming guest?

DULLS GREED

Not only would this dull the edge of that rather greedy—but natural—"I wonder what Aunt Susie will bring me," but it makes the guest feel wanted.

The child, who is naturally giving, also likes it. He goes into tremors of excitement as he makes something he likes very much to give to the guest he hopes to like just as much.

To accomplish this change of pace is easy. All you have to do is suggest it. The child will do the rest.

WARMS GUEST

For a guest to be accepted by the children of a household is as nice—and really every bit as necessary—as it is for children to be accepted by the guest. There are times when the twain never meet, but the gift offered by the child breaks many a barrier.

Northcutt, Worley Plans Told

Miss Carol Northcutt and Dan Worley of Marietta have chosen April 8 as their wedding date, the ceremony to take place at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Northcutt, in Marietta. The Rev. Paul Turner will officiate at 11:30 o'clock.

Don Worley will be his brother's best man, and Guy Northcutt Jr. and Henry Randall Jr. of Atlanta will usher.

Mr. Northcutt will give his daughter in marriage and Mrs. Henry Randall will be matron of honor. Bridesmaids will include Mrs. Dillon Winship Jr. of Atlanta, Mrs. Jack Wilson of Victoria, Texas; Misses Lovatt Anderson, Beverly Brown and Anne Whorton.

After their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Pine Forest, Marietta.

Mrs. Carroll Thompson and Miss Gene Baird will be cohostesses at the Capital City Club for Miss Northcutt on Saturday. On April 3 Mrs. Henry Randall will entertain at luncheon in her honor at her home near Emory University.

Westminster Plans Annual Easter Service

The Westminster Schools will hold its annual Easter Service Friday, March 27, at 10:30 a. m. at Grace Methodist Church.

The entire student body will take part in the service of two parts, the Sacrifice of Love and the Resurrection of Life. Music will be furnished by Larry Walz, resident artist of the Westminster staff.

Tommy Bates, Boys' High student, will be the Voice of Explanation. Dr. William L. Pressly, Westminster president, will give the responsive reading

Trim 'Limbs' Come on Chairs, Femmes

Well-turned legs aren't confined to the appendages protruding from feminine skirts. So varied are the types of legs on tables, beds and sofas that they have an aesthetic as well as functional value.

Legs on furniture—like their human counterpart — run the gamut of shapes. Legs can be square, heavy and round, tapered delicately—or even equipped with leather or brass feet. Currently they seem to be either very heavy or very light.

For example, there are massive square and massive round legs. There are very heavy tapered legs and very slender ones, as well as the inverted tapered type.

A novel metal cone—inverted so that the large end rests on the floor, and the smaller supports the table top, was recently introduced on a free-form table.

"Limbs" on a small backless stool taper outward slightly, giving the piece its nickname "turtle." Also, the tortoise is "shod" with thin brass shoes.

Leather rivals brass in lending interest to legs on the new modern pieces. Used as trimming, leather not only presents contrast to the piece, but prevents scuffing.

Symphony Soiree To Attract Visitors

In addition to scintillating musical personalities like James Melton, Beverly Wolff and the former's manager, Kurt Weinhold, the Symphony Soiree on Tuesday evening will attract a number of guests from a distance.

It is entirely possible that Artur Rubinstein will also be present, for his life-long friends, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Aronstam, have invited him to be their guest. Mr. Rubinstein, who is a delightful raconteur as well as a brilliant pianist, will be in the city for his concert on the following evening.

Other visitors will include Mr. and Mrs. Dan Manget and a party of friends from Newnan, Mrs. Charles Hardy of Gainesville, Mrs. Bernard Neal of Rome and Mr. and Mrs. James Carmichael of Marietta.

The Soiree will be held at the Capital City Club following the last symphony concert of the season as a climax to the brilliant series.

MAGNOLIA, Mrs. James E. Paullin's ancestral home at Marshallville, will be their destination when Mrs. Paullin, Mrs. Robert W. Davis and Mrs. Rufus T. Dorsey leave Thursday by motor. They will return on Saturday.

MISS MARGARET HAVERTY and Miss Helen Brennan will arrive next Wednesday from Marymount at Tarrytown, N. Y., to spend the spring holidays with their parents. Miss Mary Lou Grabbe, a senior at Marymount, will arrive April 2.

A COLLEGE BELLE arriving today for Easter is Miss Elizabeth Sams, a freshman at Radcliff, to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sams, on Peachtree Battle Ave.

Mrs. Sams spent January in Cambridge with her daughter and during an eight-day vacation between semesters, she and Elizabeth were guests at the Statler in Boston, and had the opportunity of seeing their friends and relatives there.

A NEW MEMBER OF THE EASTER TOY MENAGERIE—THE POODLE DOG
Tom Ford, Son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Ford, 1119 Cascade Rd., S. W., Inspects Pet

Prissy Pups Now Invade Easter Zoo

By DOTTY LUNDY

Prissy poodle dogs may force the bunny to abdicate from his throne as king of the Easter menagerie. Atlanta toy counters contain a veritable zoo of floppy ears and fluff—on ducks, dogs and donkeys. But Mr. and Mrs. Poodle, she with fluttery lashes and he with pince-nez, appear the sassiest of the lot.

Bunnies come in as many hues as the eggs they will deliver Easter morn. Chartreuse Peter Rabbits would have a time scampering unobserved from Farmer Brown's vegetable garden.

Candy-striped bunnies are available on wheels if hopping proves too slow a means of locomotion to keep up with Junior. Many species of toy animals come in washable materials, such as foam rubber covered with terry cloth. Others are plastic.

The Easter zoo has fewer chicks and rabbits this spring and many new animal breeds. Pointers poised for their prey have realistic bird dog spots. Leopards look ferocious. There are animated Chihuahuas and fierce lion cubs. A Hereford bull has a curly brisket; monkeys are ready to strum "Aba Daba Daba" on their guitars. There are lanky giraffes, scotties and leopards.

At least one member of the Easter menagerie plans to attend the coronation. A gen-u-wine Queen Bunny wears a golden crown and royal purple robe.

MRS. MAJOR D. COLLINS

Taxes Top League's 1953 Plans

By JEAN ROONEY

Where taxes go will be the number one interest of the Atlanta League of Women Voters this year.

Over 100 politically-minded women attending the group's annual meeting Wednesday voted tax study foremost in the league's 1953 program.

Evaluation of citizens advisory boards in city and county government and promotion of home rule for Fulton County will be continued, the women decided.

Heading these fields for the league will be Mrs. Walter Paschall, tax structure; Mrs. Levering Neely, citizens' boards; and Mrs. Robert Granitz, home rule.

Twenty new directors were elected, as the organization changed election procedures. In the future, new officers will be chosen by directors, the group determined.

A "realistic" budget of $18,700 will finance the year's activities, league members voted.

'No Margin For Error'

We went to hear Dr. Sidonie Gruenberg, the famous author and consultant on parent-child problems whom the Family Service Society brought to town, and I haven't felt so good in a long time. I think somewhere along the line during her talk all my feelings of guilt about my young'uns got up and walked out the door.

Dr. Gruenberg is a comfortably padded, bright-eyed grandmother, who thinks today's parents have a great many more problems than parents of her day had and, all things considered, are doing a darned good job.

She thinks we need help and seriously recommends that we make use of such agencies as the Family Service Society in getting it. But she's not taken in by the fads and foibles of the experts.

Dr. Gruenberg (she really prefers "Mrs." because, to her, THE Dr. Gruenberg is her husband) firmly believes that we are making more progress in the field of family relations than we realize because, "measured against our hopes, our progress is not enough." She said in present-day families there is no "margin for error, no elbowroom for mistakes" because families are smaller and no allowance is made, as it was in other days, for at least one child turning out to be a black sheep.

She cited as new problems before today's parents the fact that the family is no longer rooted in one place and surrounded by kinfolks; the new "invaders of the home—radio, television and comics"; the fact that there are fewer children and parents are therefore less experienced, and the change in the status of modern woman.

According to this child expert you can be as individual as you please and if you want to fight with your husband in Junior's and Sissy's presence it's all right, go right ahead. Disagreements between parents are normal and natural and needn't be destructive to children, Mrs. Gruenberg said, unless used to tear down the parent. She says children have to learn somewhere that it's possible to love and respect someone without agreeing with him all the time.

She poked gentle fun at the compulsion of modern-day parents to be ever "available" to their children, adding that she was awfully weary of the word. And she laughed a little at the conflicting information you get from books, telling of the concern her daughter-in-law felt when she brought her new baby home from the hospital and it cried.

Her daughter-in-law is another specialist in child psychology and had, as Mrs. Gruenberg pointed out, heard many children cry in her time.

The young mother was very distressed. She wanted to give the baby some water but dared not because the book she was using said it wasn't advisable.

"Do you want to give the baby water?" inquired Mrs. Gruenberg. "Well, wait right here. I'll go get you a book which will tell you it's all right."

And she could, too. I know because I'm the battered victim of conflicting authorities. But after hearing Dr. Gruenberg, I feel better now.

Pistol Goes With Compact In One Atlantan's Purse

By BETTY CARROLLTON

"Carrying a pistol is such a habit," Mrs. Bessie O'Quinn declared with a twinkle in her electric blue eyes, "that I even take it to church."

Mrs. O'Quinn's name is well known to Atlantans for her work as policewoman with the City for more than 13 years. They recall that in addition to her regular police work, Mrs. O'Quinn has captured single-handed a notorious escaped convict. They remember her discovery of a German woman spy during the early part of World War II, a spy whom the policewoman captured after an exciting chase down Peachtree Street.

One in a Series

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER

A member of the First Baptist Church, she has taught a Sunday School class since the age of 16, and served as superintendent of the Intermediate Sunday School department for more than 12 years.

She was president of the W. F. Slaton PTA for three terms, serving as president of the President's Club of the Atlanta Council of PTA. During her term as recreation chairman of the Council, she was outstanding in the PTA's campaign for "more and better recreational facilities and programs."

She helped the PTA in the organization of the Schoolboy Patrol, served as secretary of the Grant Park Civic Association, was treasurer of the Georgia Women's Democratic Club for four years and is active in the Women's Chamber of Commerce.

UNDERSTANDS PEOPLE

"I have never had any trouble understanding young people," Mrs. O'Quinn said, "perhaps because I am a mother who has experienced the same ageless problems of rearing a family. My son, Howard, is a patient at Gracewood. It takes a lot of patience, love and faith to help him.

"That same kind of understanding helps me in my job. I find that tenderness and a smile at the right time go a long way in police work."

Mrs. O'Quinn's daughter, Ann, a graduate of the University of Georgia, is a registered medical technician and is now working at Grady Hospital.

Ann plans to be married soon and her mother's off-duty hours are filled with preparations for the happy occasion. After the wedding, however, versatile Mrs. O'Quinn will work on a project she has planned for several years.

"I'm going to write a book," she said, "based on my experiences with the police department."

'Ladies First' Stressed Here By Lecturer

By YOLANDE GWIN

Women are still prejudiced in their political views, but their minds are still the wide open spaces when it comes to learning background facts and history.

Thus did Mrs. Grace Bush of Los Angeles, noted lecturer, sum up her feminine associates this week.

WOMEN VS. WOMEN

"In my lectures throughout the nation, women want to know about women, women of history and women of today. Those in literature and in public life are the most popular. To me, the most interesting and fascinating woman in literature is George Elliott. She had the widest heart and mind.

"From my Famous First Ladies files, I would choose Mrs. James Monroe. Why? Because when she went to France when her husband became ambassador, at the end of the Reign of Terror, she freed the Marquise de La Fayette from prison. It's a perfectly fascinating story."

Mrs. Bush, who said she became a lecturer and poet 12 year ago, stopped in Atlanta from Macon to meet with her fellow Pen Women at an informal party at the home of Mrs. Alva Maxwell on Peachtree St.

HYMNS POPULAR

Second only in popularity to her "Ladies First" lectures, said Mrs. Bush, is that on religious songs.

"People seldom realize when they sing hymns that the stories behind them, their composers and their origin are fascinating and interesting. It is too bad that many ministers select such new and unfamiliar hymns for congregational singing week after week. In a poll of my audiences the three top songs are "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer My God to Thee."

Gifted as a poetess, Mrs. Bush is equal to any situation for she can recite others as well as her own work at the drop of a subject.

WHAT EVERY YOUNG WIFE SHOULD KNOW
In this modern age—every woman should know how important douching with ZONITE is for feminine hygiene (including internal cleanliness), for her health, married happiness and to guard against offensive odor. She should realize that weak, ineffective homemade mixtures DO NOT and CAN NOT give her the great germicidal and deodorizing action of ZONITE.
Neither should she resort to overstrong solutions of harmful poisons. ZONITE is one douche proved safe to the most delicate tissues. It's positively non-poisonous, non-irritating. No other type liquid antiseptic-germicide for the douche of all those tested is SO POWERFUL yet SO SAFE to tissues as ZONITE.
ZONITE completely deodorizes. It helps guard against infection. It kills every germ it touches. It's not always possible to contact all the germs in the tract, but you can be sure ZONITE immediately kills all reachable germs. Highly recommended among nurses. Always use as directed.

ATLANTA LADY LOSES SAFELY WITH NO DIET ANARO
"I am forty years of age and have tried many different methods of reducing at various times and of course this includes going without food to the point of weakness. Now I am happy to say that thanks to Anaro Concentrate I have lost weight with little effort. In fact by following the Anaro home recipe reducing was so easy that it has really been a pleasure. After only three days of taking Anaro I started to lose weight and before I realized it I had lost 4 lbs. So far I have lost 7 lbs and only need to lose 8 more lbs. I am confident that with the help of safe effective Anaro I will lose this weight. I do not hesitate to recommend Anaro for reducing." So writes Mrs. David Campbell of 830 Cascade Ave., Atlanta, Ga.
It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain liquid ANARO at your druggist, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If you do not lose weight with the very first bottle just return it to the maker for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with ANARO

Auto Industry Decontrol Reflected in Plants Here

By ALEX JOINER

Decontrol in the auto industry is being strikingly reflected in Atlanta assembly plants these days.

It's the same in Detroit, which for you, as a prospective buyer, portends price stability.

New models at the three local installations and elsewhere in the nation are rolling out at a rate that hasn't been equalled since long before controls were imposed. And the rate apparently will go even higher in the April-June quarter of this year.

At the same time reports show more than 250,000 cars are being junked each month in the nation and that sales are holding up.

All of which means that the price cuttings by Chrysler Tuesday—an average of $100—won't create a trend but will make other makers think twice before raising retail prices.

NO GM REDUCTIONS

Observers say some independent manufacturers may follow with reductions. But General Motors has already announced "no price changes are contemplated."

"Our new 1953 cars and trucks are priced at levels which reflect the long-term policy of General Motors," the company said Wednesday, "to pass onto the customer the maximum benefits of our technological progress."

It is, it seems, a riddle of auto industry operations that while increased production entails higher manufacturing costs it also serves to hold retail prices down.

Production costs have gone up because higher output volume has necessitated purchase of a larger amount of premium steel and involved an increasing amount of overtime work.

OVERTIME COST

One industry authority has estimated that Saturday overtime in one large plant adds about $54 to the cost of each car produced.

So for competitive reasons the auto makers don't want to boost prices. As most of them said at the beginning of the present model year, they are counting on increased output volume to permit them to hold the price line.

Thus far this year U. S. factories have built 1,328,653 cars and 300,186 trucks. In the same 1952 period 875,886 cars and 283,652 trucks were built.

Bowdoin New Ports Board Chairman

W. R. Bowdoin of Atlanta was elected chairman of the Georgia Ports Authority at a meeting of the three-man board in Savannah Wednesday.

Peter Roe Nugent of Savannah is the vice-chairman, which position he continues to hold. M. M. Monroe of Waycross is the third member of the body.

Bowdoin, who is vice-president of the Trust Company of Georgia, was recently appointed by Governor Talmadge to succeed James D. Robinson of Atlanta, chairman of the board of the First National Bank.

The authority passed a resolution praising Robinson for his work as chairman during the three-year period of development of the $6,000,000 Savannah state docks, transit sheds, rail and truck facilities.

Bowdoin, native of Atlanta and graduate of the University of Georgia, is former president of the First National Bank of East Point.

Nitrogen Plant Set for Memphis

NEW YORK, March 25—(AP)—William P. Gage, president of the Grace Chemical Co., a recently formed subsidiary of W. R. Grace & Co., announced today that construction of a new nitrogen plant near Memphis, Tenn., will begin in May.

The Foster Wheeler Corp. has been named to complete the new plant at a cost of $19,000,000. Operations are expected to begin in the summer of 1954. The plant will employ about 250 production workers, Gage said.

Nitrogen produced in the form of ammonia and urea at the new factory will be sold for both agricultural and industrial purposes, Gage said.

Hears Compress Body

John W. Walker of Waynesboro was elected president of the Georgia Warehouse and Compress Association at its annual meeting in Atlanta Tuesday. He succeeds Frank S. Pope of Villa Rica. Lovett Comer of Columbus was named vice-president.

Corn Leads Grain Slump

CHICAGO, March 25—(AP)—Grains eased on the Board of Trade Wednesday without any specific news to account for the slump.

Brokers said there appeared to be some disappointment at the inability of the market to continue with the flash of strength shown in Tuesday's session. That disappointment caused some selling from local traders.

The market opened steady, except in corn, and then went into its slide almost immediately as buying orders dried up. It never recovered back to opening levels. The particular weakness in corn was attributed to large receipts of the cash grain.

Wheat closed 1¼-1⅝ lower, May $2.28-2.28⅛; corn 3/4-1½ lower, May $1.59¼-⅝; oats, ⅜-¾ lower, May 73⅝-¾; rye 2 to 2¾ lower. May $1.74⅛; soybeans ¾ to 1c lower. May $3.00¾-$3.01, and lard 5c a hundred pounds lower. May $10.55.

Coffee Market

NEW YORK, March 25—(AP)—Santos coffee futures declined today on liquidation and hedging, reflecting lower markets in futures and spot coffee in Brazil.

Roaster buying of green coffee in the New York market was very small. Colombian coffees, which usually command a premium, sold under Brazilian types.

Gen. Franke, Formerly of Atlanta, Dies

Maj. Gen. G. H. Franke, U. S. Army, Ret., a former Atlantan, died Thursday in Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C. Funeral services were held in West Point, New York.

A member of the Class of 1911, U. S. Military Academy, Gen. Franke was stationed at Ft. McPherson 20 years ago. He then held the rank of major. A polo player, he was active in organizing matches between civilian and military teams.

Before World War II, Gen. Franke was professor of military tactics at Alabama Polytechnic Institute. At the beginning of the war he was placed in command of a division, but failing health forced his retirement. Afterward he made his home at Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Surviving are his wife, a son, Maj. G. H. Franke Jr., U. S. Army; two daughters, Mrs. Edwin Kerrison, Camden, S. C., and Mrs. Christine Hanburger, Arlington, Va.

Bond Is Sought During Appeal of Lottery Sentence

The attorney for Mrs. Margaret Hodges, convicted Atlanta lottery operator, sought an order Wednesday to force Criminal Court Judge Charles Bruce to free her in bond while she again appeals a 1950 conviction.

Judge Walter C. Hendrix scheduled a hearing April 6.

Judge Bruce had refused to set aside the conviction. Also he refused to assess appeal bond for Mrs. Hodges who already has appealed once.

Toy Hunt Started Warehouse Fire, Children Admit

Eight Negroes, ranging in age from six to 14, Wednesday admitted setting fire to a warehouse while searching for toys, police said.

The Paradies & Co. warehouse at 738 McMillan St., N. W., was damaged by fire Tuesday night, Det. Lt. W. M. Cox and Det. W. E. Harwell said.

Detectives said the grandfather of an eight-year-old called police and said he saw the child playing with toys which he believed to be stolen.

The boy told of entering the warehouse with six other boys and one girl in search of toys, detectives said. They quoted him as saying the group struck matches to find their way around and that the fire started from one of the matches.

The eight were turned over to Fulton juvenile authorities.

Misunderstood Message Named Liner for Queen

LONDON, March 25—(AP)—Now that Queen Mary is dead, the story of the naming of a great ocean liner for her can be told.

She launched the ship herself Sept. 26, 1934. The Cunard directors had decided to name the vessel Victoria. The company tradition had been to use names ending in "IA." And they decided to ask Queen Mary to christen the ship.

Sir Percy Bates, chairman of Cunard, called on King George V and told him of the decision to name the ship "after one of Britain's most noble queens."

DeKalb Women Voters Espouse Manager Plan

The DeKalb League of Women Voters Wednesday officially endorsed manager-commission government for DeKalb and then heard a national authority on county government describe that form as a "simple, responsive system of local government which the people themselves can control."

Dr. George Spicer, professor of political science at the University of Virginia and for 12 years a member of the Virginia Commission on County Government, told the league's annual meeting the manager-commission system in Virginia counties had provided increased appropriations for county services, at the same time decreasing tax rates and increasing fiscal surpluses.

Earlier in the day, the league voted into its program the support of a change to the manager-commission form in DeKalb and recommended that a local government commission investigate methods for adapting the system to DeKalb.

DeKalb now has a one commissioner form of government. A current reorganization plan is being opposed by the league.

Mrs. Fleming Law, new president of the League, predicted "active work" on the part of league members in pushing the DeKalb change. Other county groups have already expressed themselves in favor of the change.

Dismissed DeKalb Jailers To Hear Ruling in 10 Days

A court decision in the controversy on DeKalb's ousted jailers will be rendered within 10 days, Judge Clifford Pratt of Winder said Wednesday.

Judge Pratt heard arguments from attorneys for Sheriff Robert K. Broome, for the DeKalb Civil Service Board and for several dismissed county jailers in a superior court hearing on a declaratory judgment asked by Broome.

Broome asked the court to rule that he had acted legally in dismissing the jailers shortly after he took office Jan. 1, and that the civil service board, which ordered them reinstated, had no jurisdiction in the case.

The sheriff's attorneys argued the DeKalb Civil Service Act was unconstitutional because the bill was improperly advertised. They contended the "author" of the bill, by whom it was advertised, was not a legislator and thus was not the real author.

Opposition attorneys said the "author" was the person who drafted the act and the advertising was legal.

Even if the act were constitutional, Broome's attorneys contended, its provisions did not supersede the state law which gives the sheriff exclusive jurisdiction over his assistants.

It was claimed in opposition to this view that the act by specifically excluding only the sheriff and his chief deputy included other sheriff's assistants.

Reported Wounded

One Georgian, Army Cpl. Andrew T. Collins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Andrews Sr., of Surrency, was wounded in the Korean war, according to latest Department of Defense bulletin.

Parking Meters For Buckhead Voted by City

The City Traffic Commission Wednesday approved parking meters for Buckhead but turned down a request that they be multi-coin type.

The commission stood firm on its decision to install five-cent meters only. Approximately 300 meters are scheduled for Buckhead.

The commission also established a 45-mile-an-hour speed limit on vehicles on the south leg of the Expressway and a 55-mile limit for Marietta Highway from Northside Dr. to the city limits.

Traffic Eng. Karl Bevins said the commission will probably up the limit on the north leg, where a 40-mile speed limit is imposed, when additional stretches now under construction are completed.

Insurors Pay Fines; Terms Are Canceled

Superior Judge Virlyn B. Moore accepted $1,000 fines Wednesday and dismissed jail sentences against two insurance company executives convicted of illegally removing public records.

The judge also reduced the conviction from a felony to a misdemeanor for C. F. Brusnighan, vice president, and James A. Ross, Georgia agent of Bankers Life and Casualty Co., Chicago.

Solicitor General Paul Webb, who had opposed an earlier attempt for reduction of the sentence for Brusnighan alone, made no objection when the two were considered together.

A Rhyme a Day

"Atom bomb test destroys 'Doom City.'"
—News item.

The only things we know for sure . . . were known by men long years ago . . . time-tested truths that still endure . . . like ocean tides that ebb and flow . . . and yet there'll always be a few . . . hard-headed ones who come along . . . convinced they have found something new . . . but time will prove that they are wrong.

The bows and arrows and the spears . . . the savage used to kill or maim . . . back in the prehistoric years . . . before the age of science came . . . were just deadly as the gun . . . and atom bomb we have today . . . (you can't do more to anyone . . . than take the breath of life away.)

And yet we say we're civilized . . . and far above that savage throng . . . when we have only utilized . . . some modern things for doing wrong . . . but little people have no choice . . . and must submit to war, I guess . . . since no one hears their little voice . . . that cries within the wilderness.

The papers and the magazines . . . say atom bombs will likely fall . . . and blow us into smithereens . . . and I don't like such talk at all . . . I don't know what you have in mind . . . but, as for me, I'm not so brave . . . I'm gonna go somewhere and find . . . a pick and dig myself a cave.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Suggested Relief For Stiff Neck

Not all that aches in the vicinity of the joints is arthritis. There is an equal chance that stiffness and pain have their origin in muscles, bursae, tendons, or fibrous tissues that separate or hold together most of these structures. Many physicians call this condition soft tissue, or muscular, rheumatism; others are more specific and use fancy terms like fibrositis, bursitis, myositis, tendonitis, or panniculitis.

Soft tissue rheumatism is encountered most frequently in the shoulders, the lower back, over the elbows and knees, and in the fingers or hands. Involvement of the neck is common (stiff neck), with pain or aching over the back of the structure.

The muscles are in a state of temporary spasm and feel tender to the touch and it hurts to move the head. As a result the individual turns the entire body when looking to the left or right. One side usually is worse than the other and stiffness often is associated with headache. Sometimes the lymph nodes below and behind the ears become sensitive and large enough to feel.

Most stiff necks are referred to as fibrositis because the fibrous tissues are affected primarily. Some victims had a cold previously, or infection of the sinuses, nose, or throat. Others recall having been in a draft, which is logical because the average victim is sensitive to changes in temperature.

For this reason those who are subject to fibrositis should wear suitable clothes and avoid over-exposure. In an attack one or two aspirin tablets every three or four hours generally will control pain.

Heat also helps; during the evening a small, warm, wet towel may be wrapped around the neck and covered with a dry towel. This supplies warmth and lends support to the head and neck. The chronic stiff neck is more difficult to cure and may require physical therapy or the injection of local anesthesia. X rays should be taken to find out whether a disturbance of the spine is present.

The condition frequently follows injury or inflammation of the upper respiratory passageways and pain is excruciating. Distress is most severe when the arm is rotated or raised to a horizontal position and is worse at night, interfering with sleep. During the acute stage, aspirin and the heat of an infrared lamp, a hot water bottle, or an electric pad is soothing. During the early stages the arm should be placed in a sling to rest the inflamed parts.

When aching persists or stiffness becomes more pronounced, other measures are in order. X-ray therapy can be tried and in many instances dramatic relief ensues. In others, physical therapy, including exercises of the shoulder, is a must to free adhesions and prevent permanent stiffness. ACTH, cortisone, or compound Falso are used in chronic cases; during the pain free interlude, the individual is able to move the arm and break adhesions. In this way permanent stiffness is avoided.

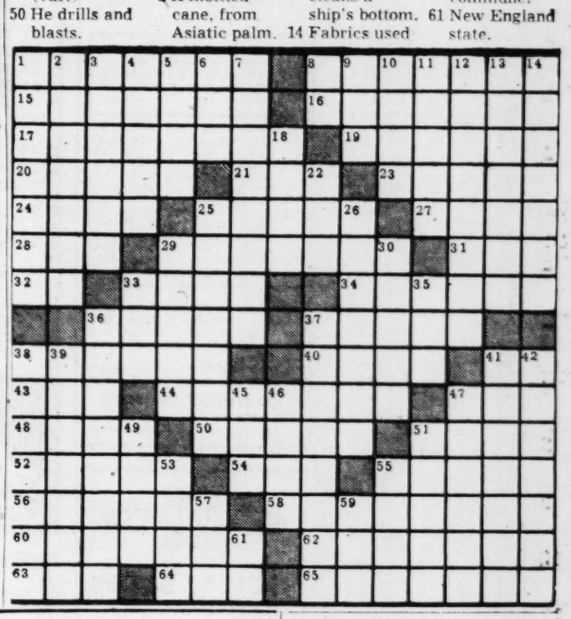
Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle



ED SULLIVAN

Veeck's Rebuff Called Undeserved

The stage has had its rebels. Richard Bennett, father of Connie and Joan Bennett, was a notorious non-conformist. If an audience made noise, Richard would stop the show, step down to the footlights and give them a dressing down. It relieved him, but it wasn't good box-office.

You think of it when you read of the position into which baseball's Bill Veeck has been forced.

Veeck, by temperament, is a rebel. Like Richard Bennett, Orson Welles and Barrymore, Veeck always lowers his head and charges against status quo. Convention is a red flag to him!

Fighting any one of his tormentors, singlehanded, Veeck would be an odds-on favorite. But the American League, in addition to its fund of musty tradition and shibboleth, has seven other owners of seven other clubs. All of them are pretty shrewd politicos, as Happy Chandler learned. Veeck was buried under sheer weight of numbers.

So Veeck, a former U. S. Marine, one-legged because the recoil of an antiaircraft gun on Bougainville shattered his right foot, has been cast as the villain in the American League. I submit that this is flagrant miscasting.

The American League pounced on Veeck because he proposed to shift his St. Louis Browns' franchise to Baltimore. He had a fairly substantial reason, a $400,000 loss at St. Louis, which never has been big enough to support two big league clubs.

The National League, on the other hand, has approved Lou Perini's shift of the Boston Braves to Milwaukee. Perini wanted to move the franchise because Boston had indicated it wasn't in position to support two major league clubs.

Marines are a curious breed of Americans. They just don't give a dang for conventions. The lingo he used as a marine, with other marines, didn't harmonize with the conversation of businessmen in the American League. He was rough, tough and unpredictable, desirable qualities in the Marine Corps, upsetting in the fields of commerce.

To make a go of it, with the bedraggled Browns, Veeck resorted to showmanship. Here in Yankee Stadium, another ex-marine, Dan Topping, resorted to fashion shows which must have caused Miller Huggins to spin in his grave, but the league took no offense. The Yankees are the financial bulwark of the league.

The deal handed to Veeck, I think, won't sit well with Americans, whether or no they are baseball fans. The citizenry will be puzzled by a monopolistic setup which prevents the owner of a property from moving it to some other town to get out of the red ink.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

BY JOSEPH WHITNEY Consultant

At what age do we reach maturity?

Answer: You attain psychological maturity when you acquire enough self-confidence to take yourself and your abilities for granted. This does not come on a fixed date like your 21st birthday. It comes gradually as you grow out of your adolescent proving ground. Biologically we reach maturity several years earlier than we reach psychological maturity. When you begin to feel a sense of inner security; when your interests start turning outward toward your environment and no longer center completely about yourself, you are nearing mature status.

Answer: You can teach children anything, but you should make haste slowly in the process. James L. Hymes of New York State Teachers College believes the whole pace of children is slower than that of adults. They walk and talk slower, take longer to do the things they enjoy and still longer to do the things they do not enjoy. When it is really necessary to hasten a child's actions, a gratifying incentive has been found more efficient in the long run than reproof or punishment.

Do actors live in a dream world?

Answer: Probably more than the rest of us. While there is no fine psychological line that divides the actor from the ordinary mortal, the desire of the actor to be "different" and superior is more strongly entrenched and is probably one of the motivating factors that caused him to choose the stage as a profession. Tests made after the last war by Conrad Chyatte, U. S. Army vocational guidance expert, indicated that actors had "unusual personality patterns." They were found to be somewhat self-centered and unrealistically optimistic.

Merit Personnel Slash Reconsideration Listed

The State Personnel Board may rescind or modify Thursday its action of last week in cutting the staff of the State Merit System by 50 per cent.

Board member Cook Barwick, who opposed a drastic cut, said Wednesday he has been notified by other members of the board, Chairman Randall Walker and Stanley Brooks, that a meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday to reconsider the action.

Barwick said he did not know just what the other board members meant by "reconsider," but that they might rescind or modify the personal slash or adopt some other economy plan.

"I'm hopeful they will take what I think would be a more realistic attitude," Barwick added.

Brooks authored the move to cut the merit system's 36 employees by half in order to help carry out Governor Talmadge's recent order for economy in government. Barwick objected to so sharp a cut on the grounds that it would be like "cutting off half Atlanta's police force."

The merit system handles the hiring and job rights of 10,000 state employees.

Several department heads and other state officials have been sharply critical of the personnel board's order in off-the-record comment.

Morris Brown Founder Day Here April 8

Morris Brown College will observe its 68th Founders' Day here Wednesday, April 8, and on the following day John H. Lewis will be inaugurated as the college's eighth president, officials announced Wednesday.

Dr. Stifler

Bishop Arthur J. Moore will speak at 11 a. m. Founders' Day services. Dr. Francis Carr Stifler, secretary of public relations for the American Bible Society, will be principal speaker at 2 p. m. ceremonies of installation Thursday, April 9, at the college.

The April 9 observances will include a 10 a. m. symposium of "The Church-Related College in a Changing World," to be held in the college chapel with a number of educators participating. The public is invited to attend all exercises.
